FOR TALKS WITH PM

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower, scheduled to make a three-day visit to Ottawa next week, said today his talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker will deal with such problems as water and oil resources, lead and zinc and the disposal of surplus wheat.

Eisenhower told a press conference relations between the U.S. and Canada should be "just as close as we can possibly make them."

U.S. to Act in Lebanon
if Necessary — Twining

DETROIT (AP)—Gen. Nathan Twining said Tuesday night the United States is ready to send troops into Lebanon if the situation calls for it.

"I don't think there is any question about it," said Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. "We are prepared for any eventuality—all-out war or limited war—right now."

He told a press conference he did not think U.S. intervention in Lebanon would touch off a world war.

"In Lebanon, President Camille Chamoun said Lebanese rebels under Syrian command may launch a strong attack on the northern port of Tripoli at any moment."

But if this attack and one from the area southeast of Beirut are "beaten completely, the armed rebellion will collapse as a military movement," the pro-Western president said.

Chamoun said that, before asking for a United Nations police force to seal the Lebanon-Syrian border, he would give the UN observers group time to size up the aid his government claims the rebels are getting from the United Arab Republic.

He added that he will not ask for U.S. or British intervention so long as Lebanese forces are able to fight successfully.

Rebels and government forces took time out today in the fighting in Tripoli to draw up a code of conduct for warfare.

The army was reported to have agreed to cease using artillery so long as the rebels stopped their attacks with mortars and grenades.

THIRD OF A SERIES
A NEWCOMER'S
LOOK AT VICTORIA

(Sometimes people of a city, living their daily routine, get complacent and quite satisfied with themselves and do not recognize their own possibilities. It takes an outsider to see things in proper perspective. David Cowlshaw, a newspaperman from England who recently joined The Times staff, today continues a series on what he thinks NOW of his adopted town, with a bit of his tongue in his cheek.)

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Among Eastern Canadians, Victoria has long been known as "The Cemetery Town" but it wasn't until I came to live here that I discovered why. A short stroll in the area of Victoria's Pictorially — Yates and Douglas — as enough. Loitering and rumbling around that bustling hub are scores of weary, parchment-wrinkled Rip Van Winkles who seemed to be either ready for the grave or fugitives from it.

There are young people in Victoria, of course—who else would drive those $7,000 purple hot-rods—but we'll wait until Thursday to talk about them. Today let's look at Victoria's oldsters.

WHY SO GLOOMY?

Quite frankly, I like them. As we have already found, they ARE Victoria. What life they have left in them is the city's forte, its spirit, the essence that distinguishes the place from, say, Edmonton. What the visitor to Victoria wants to know is: why are they so gloomy?

'NAUSEOUS CONDUCT'
IN HEIKKILA CASE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Judge Edward P. Murphy refused Tuesday to hold district immigration director Bruce Barber in contempt of court for deporting William Heikkila but he did accuse the immigration service officer of "nauseous" conduct.

Heikkila, 52, was seized on a San Francisco street April 18 by Barber's agents and deported to Finland although there were still proceedings in court dealing with his appeal from deportation as an alien ex-Communist.

A few hours after the draftsman was taken to Vancouver, B.C., without notification of his wife or attorney, his lawyer got a restraining order.

110 Lives Lost
During Holiday

By The Canadian Press

Holiday mishaps claimed the lives of 110 Canadians during the Dominion Day holiday weekend—the worst weekend toll in Canadian history.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Tuesday counted 52 dead in traffic and 50 drownings. Eight died in other accidents ranging from a plane crash in New Brunswick killing two to a British Columbia mountain fall.

The highway toll exceeded the Canadian Safety Council's estimate of 45 deaths. Last year, in a three-day holiday, 98 died, including 54 in traffic and 31 drownings.

TOPPED RECORD

This year's toll topped the previous Dominion Day record of 100, set in a similar four-day period in 1952 which had also been the highest of any holiday weekend.

In B.C., the death of a woman from Crescent Lake, 30 miles northwest of Prince George, brought the holiday weekend death toll in the province to 12.

Mrs. Gus Krausz died in hospital Monday from injuries she was believed to have suffered in a head-on collision on a road tributary to the Hart Highway early Sunday.

Mrs. Krausz was riding with her husband in a car which crashed head-on with a second vehicle driven by Walter Kindrachuk of Prince George.

In other holiday mishaps, Mrs. Vivian Mabel Wood, 54, of North Vancouver was killed when she slipped from a snow-covered trail on Sentinel Glacier, 50 miles north of Vancouver. Word of the accident did not reach Squamish police until Monday morning. Mrs. Wood had been hiking with a group from the Canadian Youth Hostel Association.

Hubert Berr of Vancouver was believed drowned in Chilliwack River after he disappeared while on a picnic with his family.

RCMP and troops from Chilliwack army camp are dragging the river.

Bribe Case
Lawyer Says
No Evidence

VANCOUVER (CP)—A defence lawyer declared today that there is no evidence against his client—the big B.C. Forest Products Limited—timber concern—in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial.

Douglas McK. Brown was arguing for dismissal of conspiracy and bribery charges against the firm.

He said it was not a matter of reasonable doubt—"what I am concerned about is the total lack of evidence."

JURY EXCUSED

He said none of the testimony of the crown's chief witness, accountant Charles Eversfield, was applicable to B.C. Forest Products. And there was no evidence that any monies coming from his client was used to pay off former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

Mr. Brown presented his argument as the trial went into its 33rd day before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson. The jury of nine men and three women stands excused until Thursday.

Ottawa Proposes
Plan Leading
To Arbitration

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Starr announced today he will recommend to disputants in the west coast seamen's strike that they agree to resumption of steamship service with continued negotiations and possible eventual arbitration.

He told the Commons he has received such a suggestion from Eric Taylor of Toronto, the labor department's inquiry commissioner in the dispute that has tied up Canadian Pacific Steamship Company's coastal vessels.

Mr. Starr said that in the event of failure to reach agreement, Mr. Taylor suggested the dispute be referred to an arbitrator appointed by the labor minister with the dispute to be resolved by Aug. 15.

"I am conveying this to the parties concerned and urging them to give the proposals favorable consideration," Mr. Starr said.

He said Mr. Taylor had advised him that, as of late Tuesday night, there was nothing more he could do to bring the disputants together.

The company's 10 ferries operating between Vancouver, Vancouver Island and British Columbia mainland ports have been tied up since May 16 by a walkout of 300 members of the Seafarers' International Union.

The union is asking a 16 per cent wage increase this year and another nine next year. The company has countered with an 8 per cent offer.

Ferries Could Run in 24 Hours

If the CPR and unions agree to the government's appeal the ferries could be back in operation within 24 hours.

Mr. Taylor told the government it should bring about resumption of shipping service "in the interests of the community."

Five straight days of negotiations over the holiday weekend between Mr. Taylor and the unions and CPR broke down Tuesday and resulted in his recommendations to Ottawa.

Mr. Taylor told The Times this morning: "We were on the threshold of agreement several times, but I regret that no formula capable of acceptance by all three unions and the CPR was found."

Officers Agree to Arbitration

The mediator said the Marine Engineers and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, both officers' unions, had agreed to voluntary arbitration before the talks broke down. In addition, they were reported willing to compromise on their demands for a 10-per cent wage increase over two years.

"They accepted my proposals without qualification," Mr. Taylor told reporters, "and the Seafarers' International Union rejected them without qualification."

The CPR's position had been that there was no point in setting up two unions if the third would not go along.

The company would agree to voluntary arbitration only if it were conducted by a Supreme Court judge, said the mediator.

The Marine Engineers' president, Richard Greaves, told The Times this morning Mr. Taylor tried three times to get CPR to accept arbitration by a federal arbitrator, not by a Supreme Court judge.

Bennett Ready
For IWA Talks

Premier Bennett said today he is personally available to assist with mediation to avert a lumber strike in B.C.

Commenting on statements of Joe Morris, district president of the International Woodworkers of America, the premier said, "The government will always help. I am always available and ready to help in every way."

The IWA official told The Times today he had received no reply from the provincial government to the union's request for help in settling the dispute with B.C. lumber companies.

"We are still waiting," he said.

Mr. Morris, who is also chairman of the IWA district negotiating committee, said Monday the union is willing to have another look at its demands if necessary to settle the strike, and that there will be no immediate walkout.

Reporting on a government-sponsored strike vote among coast members, Mr. Morris said strike action was favored by a "majority approximately 70 per cent" of the 17,000 members who voted.

A previous strike vote conducted by the union showed 87 per cent in favor of strike action.

PM, Wife Escape Injury
As Team of Horses Bolts

SASKATOON (CP)—As an RCAF band broke into O Canada, four skittish Clydesdales plunged ahead and narrowly missed injuring Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker at a ceremony here Tuesday.

The open door of a landau, from which the couple had just alighted, caught Mrs. Diefenbaker and threw her against her husband. Both were swept forward several feet before the driver reined in the frightened horses.

The Diefenbakers merely brushed themselves off and stood erect while the band from RCAF station Saskatoon finished playing O Canada.

The occasion was the opening at the Western Development Museum Grounds of Pioneer Era, a five-day show which re-enacts the pioneer life of the province.

They had left the museum in an ancient landau drawn by a four-horse team. The landau stopped in front of the grandstand and the Diefenbakers got down.

Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker returned to Ottawa by air from Saskatoon early today.

know. The elders of B.C.'s capital have frowns on their centennial faces, that do almost as much as a ferry strike to keep the tourists away.

There they sit on that sagging wooden bench at the bus stop, muttering to themselves about "rhododendrons," "balloons" and something about a ferry strike. I believe it is, leaning suspiciously at passers-by and scowling at anyone with the temerity to look pleasant. Veritable dinosaurs.

But these vultures I found to have a fighting quality that you must admire. Speak to them and—with little prompting they will lambaste the situation in Lebanon and a mysterious "them" with enough energy to power a small turbine. No empty heads here!

These ancient creatures know more about what's going on in the world and about what SHOULD be going on in the world than many of the city's elected upstarts apparently give them credit for.

OUCH!

But their anger on occasion—ouch! One lady of teasing vintage I bumped into was a real Dresden Doll, with the shawl and dainty walk you associate with a member of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of Empire. I met her in the Post Office. In fact, I laughed at her.

A grave mistake. It wasn't her fault the shopping bag overturned and spilled apples over the General Delivery counter. But laugh I did, quickly to find myself on the business end of a tongue-lashing that had me pricking from head to toe and the staid counter-clerk wide-eyed and goggling with horror. I still dream about it.

THEY RAKE, TOO

But if Victoria old people like to rant, they also like to rake. Yes, their precious ridiculous gardens. Those absurd fossils plough and sow, reap and hoard and stash away for the winter with a trowling dedication that is nothing short of remarkable. And pathetic. The visiting onlooker is amused for a while, then puzzled.

What's back of it all, he wonders? Why do these barnacled mariners on the sea of life choose to fritter away the few years they have left on the sags fantastica and the flora stupidoes?

It takes a couple of weeks to trowel up the answer, but I'll be talking about that in a later piece. Right now I'd like to say how sorry I am that this city's real gold, its senior citizens, should be content to be put out to pasture by their headstrong issue when they carry in their heads a wealth of knowledge crystallized from long painful years of (presumably) upright living.

It's tragic, somehow, that so much hard-won common sense should be lavished on a bunch of old geraniums.

As it is, it looks to me as though the reins of Victoria's destiny are in the uncalled hands of shiny-faced popin-jays with heads full of ideas and—well, just ideas. We'll look closer Friday. Thursday we'll go shopping.

Half-Million Dollar Fire Destroys Vancouver Plant

(From Times News Services)

VANCOUVER—A $500,000 industrial fire destroyed the offices and warehouses of the E. L. Sander Lumber Company Limited Tuesday night.

H. A. Sander, secretary-treasurer of the company, estimated the loss of lumber and other contents at $400,000 and the three-storey building at $100,000.

Considerable other damage was caused as sparks showered an extensive area.

More than 150 firemen fought the blaze which for a time threatened to spread through the multi-million-dollar industrial area in False Creek Flats.

Two firemen suffered slight injuries. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Nearly 5,000 spectators saw sparks leap hundreds of feet into the air. Vast traffic tieups developed as motorists stopped to watch the blaze, which was visible for miles around.

Firemen had to extinguish sparks over a 10-block area. Tons of water were hosed onto commercial buildings nearby. At one point firemen had to play hoses on their own trucks which were showered with sparks.

Two men were fined a total of $75 and costs Monday at lower court for failing to render assistance in controlling a forest fire. Guy Reid admitted the charge and was fined $25 while Douglas Reid was fined $50 on conviction of a similar count.

Mines, Credit Needs House Holiday Fare

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—The House spent Dominion Day at work discussing the economic ailments of the Nova Scotia coal industry and the credit needs of Canada's small businesses.

The outcome: The big Progressive Conservative majority won, by 137 to 42, what was in effect a vote of confidence Tuesday night in the Conservative government's coal and power policies in the Maritimes.

Revenue Minister Nowlan described as "poppycock" Liberal claims that Nova Scotia coal mines are losing Central Canada markets under Progressive Conservative policies.

Nova Scotia's representative in the federal cabinet was replying to statements by Liberals, notably former immigration minister J. W. Pickersgill, about the government's decision to assist the Dominion Coal Company with carrying charges on its big coal stockpile so the company could keep its mines operating.

Mr. Pickersgill, MP for Bona-vista-Twillingate, said the government assistance has failed to prevent a five-week layoff of company miners. Couldn't the government have acted sooner to avoid the layoff?

Mr. Nowlan said the government didn't know about the layoffs in time to act any sooner. Besides, he said the layoffs will be spread over several months and in different mines to soften the impact.

Opposition Leader Pearson said Mr. Nowlan had thrown a "smokescreen of his irony and eloquence" around the facts. He had not dealt with points raised in a Liberal non-confidence motion over the government's action.

A series of speakers from all parties agreed something should be done to help small business obtain long-term credit for capital expansion.

Non-Confidence Vote Scheduled

Today the House resumed its budget debate with a vote scheduled on a Liberal non-confidence motion. It accuses the government of inadequate measures to meet the recession and of moving toward greater trade restrictions counter to a free-trade trend in the Western world. The eight-day debate is due to end Thursday.

The House gave some recognition to Canada's 91st anniversary of Confederation. It opened two hours later than usual due to a colorful military parade on the Parliament Hill lawn, and began with the singing of O Canada—in French and English—and God Save the Queen.

The discussion on credit needs of small business grew out of a speech by Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East). He proposed that chartered banks and the Industrial Development Bank be geared to handle long-term capital loans for small businesses.

Most members who spoke in the brief debate agreed with some of his specific suggestions although John MacLean (PC, Winnipeg North Centre) said it should be left to the small business section whose establishment has already been announced by the government.

Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) said 1957 bankruptcies totaled nearly 2,200—an increase of 12 per cent from the previous year. Many were in the "working class" group and probably would not have occurred if loans had been available.

External Affairs Minister Smith Tuesday assured the House there have been no differences among Canada, the United States, and the United Kingdom on the "central role" the United Nations can play in Lebanon.

He was replying to Opposition Leader Pearson who had asked for comment on a report that Canada had extended informal misgivings to both countries about intervention in Lebanon, even under the UN flag.

Canada has 10 men on the UN peace team acting as observers in Lebanon.

Mr. Smith also said Canada's external affairs department believes the supervisory commission in South Viet Nam has no jurisdiction in a border dispute between that country and Cambodia.

Labor Minister Starr returned to Ottawa Tuesday night from Europe, about two hours too late to hear Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) say, in effect, that he had been out of the country too long in view of current domestic labor troubles.

Mr. Starr, who left about three weeks ago to attend a conference of the International Labor Organization, was back in the House within about an hour of his return.

Earlier, Mr. Winch had asked in the House when the government expected the minister to return, "and accept his responsibilities" in connection with "the continuing economic crisis" arising from strikes, lockouts and unemployment.

FRASER BRIGADE COMPLETES HISTORIC TRIP

FORT LANGLEY, B.C. (CP)—British Columbia history books were turned back to page 1 Tuesday as more than 500 people watched the landing of the Fraser brigade at nearby Derby, original site of the first fort in this area.

The brigade was escorted by Indians in their canoes, and proceeded to the skirl of bagpipes to Fort Langley for flag-raising ceremonies.

It was exactly 150 years earlier, to the day, that Simon Fraser and his men landed at this spot, first capital of B.C. Later, L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee, officiated at the opening of the new $14,000 Fort Langley museum.

Foreign Flag Ships Helped By Waterway

WASHINGTON (AP)—The maritime administration said Tuesday a new study indicates foreign flag ships will have a decided advantage over U.S. operators when the St. Lawrence Seaway opens for ocean-going vessels.

An engineers' study made by H. C. Downer and Associates, Inc., Cleveland, also forecast competitive difficulties for many types of ships now plying the Great Lakes.

The study—predicted that lower operating costs of Canadian and other foreign flag vessels would give them an edge in trade generated by the seaway.

100-Mile Lake Created For St. Lawrence Power

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Seaway valley is getting its face washed and lifted today.

A controlled flood, unleashed early Tuesday by a 31-ton nitro-blast of a rock dam in the St. Lawrence River here, is submerging this rolling, gentle countryside settled first 174 years ago by United Empire Loyalist soldiers.

A ghost land of 38,000 acres is to form a 100-square mile lake that will be a headpond for a 1,164,000 kilowatt hydro-electric dam.

PUSHED BUTTON

Dr. Otto Holden, 67, chief engineer for Ontario Hydro, poked a button at 9 a.m. ADT (5 a.m. PDT) Tuesday to detonate 3,100 cans of powerful nitro buried in a 600-foot cofferdam.

The explosion, marked by twin spires of debris and smoke, ripped two holes in the cofferdam to launch the flood. Boulders shot 1,000 feet in the air.

Muddy water snaked two and one-half miles to the high, curving powderdam just three miles west of downtown Cornwall, Ontario's 18th largest city. And then it began to back up. By nightfall, more than 12 feet of water covered formerly dry land.

MANY WATCH

Thousands watched the long-heralded flood that forced the movement of 6,500 people and seven old riverfront towns to higher land.

Sometime July 4, about 180,000,000 gallons of water will fill the new lake—as yet unnamed, although Americans across the international border have dubbed it Lake St. Lawrence.

The flood began on Canada's birthday and will end on the independence anniversary of the United States, a symbolic gesture to the international seaway-power undertaking.

Shipping banned since Monday from the 35-mile area west of here will resume traffic July 4, using two U.S. locks near Massena, N.Y., to sidestep the power dam and enter the power pool. A Canadian lock at Iroquois, Ont., will lift ships back into the St. Lawrence River channel leading Ontario.

Where Money Is Needed

THE IMMEDIATE ECONOMIC policies of both the Canadian and American Governments are based on the assumption that the recession has reached bottom and soon will begin to lift. This assumption is not shared, however, by many private authorities in the United States who have recently issued analyses quite different from those of the Government.

There is complete agreement, however, between Government and business on one basic point—that the recession is caused mainly by a fall in business investment. It is what the economists call a "capital goods recession." There has been little fall in consumer spending and there has been a modest rise in some Government spending. The x-ray spot is business spending on new plants.

In his recent budget speech Mr. Fleming pointed out that weakness. Accepting the views of his predecessors in office, he says that a fall in foreign demand for some Canadian products caused business to reduce its capital expansion and hence to remove the primary pillar of the Canadian boom.

The same fact is true of the United States where our recession largely originated. Latest figures show a sharp decline in the capital spending plans of business for this year. According to the estimates of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the department of commerce, this kind of expenditure will fall 17 per cent below last year's figure, which stood at $37.7 billions. That drop may seem slight but of itself it means the cancellation of huge building plans and literally millions of potential jobs.

As against the fall in private capital spending it is commonly said that government will vastly increase its capital spending and, as a result, the American economy will be as active as ever.

But, as The Christian Science Monitor reports, "up to now the performance of the Federal Government in stepping up its spending has been negligible and without direct economic impact. The Government actually reduced its contracted expenditures in the first quarter of this year. New spending at the moment is hardly evident."

In Canada the Federal Government says it is launching a large program of public works to counter-balance the fall in private capital spending, but many of these plans are pretty vague and in any case will not have any large economic impact for some time to come.

However valuable they may be, in the short or the long run, they cannot be expected of themselves to counterbalance any great fall in business spending. (It should be noted, though, that Canada's economy so far has rallied against the recession much more effectively, both in the public and private sectors, than the economy of the United States.)

The core of the problem is to expand private capital spending. It will not expand, of course, until private investors feel a greater confidence in the future and see a chance of profit. They have good reasons for confidence in the long run and, indeed, are still investing huge sums but they are not investing enough.

The Chase Manhattan Bank says in its latest report that "we still face significant downward adjustments in business capital expenditures."

The National Bureau of Economic Research, headed by Dr. Arthur F. Burns, formerly chief economic adviser to President Eisenhower, calls the recession "intermediate" among all recessions since 1920 and adds: "If the current contraction follows the courses of the contractions since 1920 and remains intermediate in severity, the economy may not regain the July, 1957, level of general business activity until some time in 1959 or even early 1960."

While the official optimism of the American Government is thus not shared by all private students, one thing is certain: There will be no full recovery in Canada until it begins in the United States because it is there that we sell most of our exports and there secure a large amount of our investment capital.

The problem should not be exaggerated. A marginal recession has hit some industries severely and the unemployed cruelly but the Canadian economy as a whole is still highly prosperous and, according to Mr. Fleming, will produce more goods this year than ever. As a nation we have not lost normal prosperity or anything like it but only an unprecedented and abnormal boom.

Time to Take Off the Gloves

BRITISH COLUMBIANS TODAY are asking if someone must be killed by terrorist sabotage before stringent and conclusive action can be taken to stop this nonsense once and for all.

For many months interior railway lines have been at the mercy of bombing attacks. Now the attacks have moved into cities: hotel rooms in Kelowna and Vernon as well as an Okanagan Lake ferry have been damaged or threatened with damage by time bombs.

It makes poor centennial publicity, to say the least, when there is open conjecture as to whether the itinerary of Princess Margaret may have to be changed because it could be unsafe for her to spend a few days in Kelowna; or whether, having decided to maintain her schedule, her stay will be marred by threats on her life.

While there have been no fatalities as yet, it is obviously only luck that has prevented one or more deaths, even a mass destruction that would shock the nation.

Clearly the time has come to take off the gloves. If a thousand police are needed to blanket the area and catch the culprits, then let us have the thousand police without delay. One thing is certain: the public will stand for no more of this murderous nonsense. Let the law be observed—and enforced.

Fixing the Responsibility

LAST WEEK RCMP AND Saanich police placed the accent on youth to forestall any chance of trouble developing at a late party following certain high school graduation festivities.

Officers stopped cars proceeding to a hall, made certain arrests on charges of impaired driving and possession of liquor by minors. The news item detailing the action noted that several persons were not members of the graduating class.

The police are to be commended for a procedure which put a curb on mischief before it reached unwieldy proportions.

But a further point in the news story deserves attention. A school official noted that prior to graduation, students were required to take home for signature by their parents a form which stated the school board frowned on all-night parties following the school's function.

In other words the school accepted no responsibility for non-sanctioned events after the formal ceremonies were concluded. Having washed its hands of any connection with the all-night activities, the board left the issue up to the students concerned and their fathers and mothers, letting the latter know that the trustees disapproved.

It is to be hoped parents of future graduating classes will give a little more attention to that attitude. It is up to them to decide whether or not their own children will attend these late events. It is for them to be or not to be impressed by the youthful and doubtful argument, "All the other kids are going."

Mr. Duplessis and Le Devoir

PREMIER MAURICE DUPLESSIS of Quebec has given the rest of Canada one more piece of evidence to support the opinion most Canadians have of Mr. Duplessis.

Before opening a press conference last week, the head of Quebec's Union Nationale government ordered the forcible ejection of a reporter representing Le Devoir. Le Devoir is the newspaper which has carried a front page series on a reported $20,000,000 stock coup involving several Duplessis ministers.

The reporter in question claimed the right to attend the press conference. The Quebec premier replied by calling a police constable to remove him.

Minutes later Mr. Duplessis made the high-sounding proclamation: "At no time has the press ever enjoyed such freedom as under the National Union Government." The proclamation is obviously incomplete. It lacks the qualification: "to report what the premier wishes to be reported."

SHORTAGE OF SUPPLY

By B. A. TOBIN

What Time Do You Make It?

I HAVE had a suspicion for quite a while now that time isn't what it used to be. It used to be a stretchable commodity that lasted as long as you wanted it to. If you wanted time for an other game of marbles, you just took it. It was there. If you wanted time to build a tree fort—say one or two summer weeks of it—why, you just confiscated as much as you needed, and no questions asked. Time was all around you, abundantly, consistently, freely. Of course now, and then you might run out of a few minutes of it—catching a street car or beating the school bell—but these were temporary scarcities and never involved large amounts. For all practical purposes of boyhood, time was endless and available without even asking.

But gradually a change set in. It became more noticeable during college days when there seemed to be a shortage of evenings around examination time. There was still lots of time available during the afternoons, of course, when the hours could be spent in common-room discussions or watching a rugby game. But there was definitely a shortage of not having enough to go round when exams piled up and you ran out of evenings for study.

Not Quite Enough

There seemed to be a slight parsimony, too, when home waiters were played and you could have done nicely with a few more dances with that girl from English 2 or Maths 1. For the first time, evenings seemed to be getting a little shorter than they used to be—not all of them, of course, but enough of them to be noticeable.

And finally, by graduation time, there was an increasingly obvious slippage of time cogs somewhere and it suddenly occurred to you to wonder where the last four years had slid away to.

Where once the years had been a seemingly endless flow, now all of a sudden they became units in themselves, each one separate and distinct from the rest, each to be seized for what it had to offer.

That wasn't an abiding concept, of course; it just occurred to you now and then. But the idea was planted and it was to become increasingly persistent as further years went by.

Now years became tagged with the most important event that had occurred. You looked back to the year you graduated, the year you got your present job, the year you made a trip, the year you met this or that person who became important in your scheme of things.

Imperceptibly, though, the years seemed to be sliding by at a faster rate. Before you realized it, a lot of them, farther back along your path, became indistinguishable one from the other.

You found yourself referring to happenings in "the middle 'thirties" or "the early 'forties" because you found yourself unable to place them in your life schedule with greater accuracy than that.

And now, where once you had wondered what happened to the past four years, you now found it hard to account for the past ten. A decade, which you had never bothered with before, became a unit of time measurement.

You began to realize that instead of seventy years to consider as your life span, you had only seven decades—a much smaller figure—and that more than half of them were gone already.

Much more than half were gone, really, because the early years had been long ones, and the ones remaining would be progressively shorter. Your draughts of life were being served in smaller and smaller beakers, and there was nothing you could do about it, except try to drink each one to the bottom.

Time, once an inexhaustible reservoir, had become a series of pot-holes, and as you trudged from one to the other you found them decreasing in size.

Reason for Haste

Well, as I remarked, I have felt this new abbreviated type of time marching on for quite a while, and I have often wondered what governed its changing dimensions.

Now, at last, I have obtained an inkling of the cause—the earth is slowing down.

Our clocks, based on our rotation in space, seemingly remain the same, but they are getting behind the true march of time as measured by unchanging atomic clocks.

It appears, then, that while we daily about our affairs, measuring time by a stretching standard, time itself is really moving right along at the original speed. Naturally, using the wrong gauge, we end up now and then with a shortage.

We thought we were bailing out time's reservoir with a gallon bucket, but each dip really got rid of a gallon and a bit. There isn't going to be as much in the bottom of the reservoir as we had expected. It's later than we think.

Would you believe that during the past two years of observation by Japanese scientists, the earth's speed of rotation has slowed down by 48 hundred-thousandths of a second per year? That may not seem much at first glance, but the cumulative effects are obvious.

Decreasing Spin

It has not always been thus. At one period the earth was observed to be speeding up in its rotation. But we are now on the down grade.

I know of nothing that can be done, except to make an appeal to the United Nations. The slow-down is attributed to the instability of the earth's liquid core and the elasticity of its crust. As a global organization, the UN appears to be out only hope, but it is a small one.

We can only hope that, in time, something may be done. But it will have to be soon if it is to be in time.

From Our Files

July 2, 1898 — Santiago de Cuba: Yesterday at 8 a.m. the American forces and Spanish forces engaged in a fierce battle. The fighting stopped at 9 p.m. to be resumed this morning.

July 2, 1918 — London: That the sinking of hospital ships is a definite policy of the Germans was placed beyond doubt by torpedoing of the Canadian hospital ship Llandoverly Castle, newspapers here say.

July 2, 1938 — Wimbledon: In another dramatic episode in their long-standing tennis rivalry, Helen Wills Moody trounced Helen Jacobs 6-4, 6-0 to win the Wimbledon singles crown for the eighth time today.

As Our Readers See It

And Leave Them Down

'Tis about time those unsightly balloons were taken down and left down—period. Having recently been in Portland, U.S.A., it is unfortunate that those responsible for our city decorations hadn't had a similar idea for steel decorations (during the grand parade), as they (the decorations) certainly looked fine and attractive and no doubt a lot less expensive. ANOTHER TAXPAYER.

By What Right?

What right has the provincial government to enforce the separation of parents and their children simply to avoid the trouble of having to apprehend the children in September to ensure that they are in attendance when school begins?

Our law states that children under the age of 16 must attend school during the academic year. It does not provide for their forcible detention during the summer on the assumption that they might not be present when school begins.

The recent action of the Doukhobor women in attacking Miss McKay of the department of health and welfare is entirely reprehensible, but as a mother I feel that the treatment accorded them, and their children is totally unjust. Even the assumption that the Doukhobors would not send their children to school in September cannot justify their virtual imprisonment for over two months in the summer.

Let us hope that this unfortunate incident will convince the officials of our department of health and welfare that, no matter what their past actions, these people cannot be treated in this manner. MRS. BERYL YOUNG, 2062 Mayne Avenue.

Adding Confusion

Mr. O'Reilly is a busy man these days. There's nothing wrong with being busy except that in his case he's busy adding confusion to the sea of it that already exists. Now he says in The Times (25-6-58) that Communism (he means Russian state capitalism) is founded on dialectical materialism, which is a doctrine and furthermore is not supported by science or history.

I guess it hasn't occurred to Mr. O'Reilly yet that the majority of people in Russia work for wages and that capitalism there, as elsewhere, is based upon wage-slavery. Mumbblings of Marxism are used as an idealistic camouflage to hide the confidence game that goes on there in the same way as the ideals of freedom and democracy are used in other parts of this capitalist earth.

As far as dialectical materialism is concerned, it isn't a doctrine, it's a part of science, and history can't really be understood without it.

Finally, where does he get the idea that "Communists" do not accept Christianity? The British Freethinker says that religious folk make up 30 to 40 per cent of the total population of the U.S.S.R., a far greater proportion than in Great Britain. And the Russian Orthodox Church has the backing of the government!

J. G. JENKINS, 959 Darwin Avenue.

A Great Man's Verdict

Strange that one of your correspondents, (a prophet?) in naming two contemporary Englishmen who will be remembered 1000 years hence — namely Lord Bertrand Russell and Sir Winston Churchill — should choose Bertrand Russell, an "atheistic" so-called intellectual, as the author of a book that might save mankind from a "Dark Age. What nonsense!

Concerning books, let us have an opinion from Winston Churchill on the

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Government's Disarray

IN close to a quarter-century of government-watching, this reporter has never seen the government of the United States in such disarray as it is today. There is the thought that crowds out every other, after the first alarming look at what may be called post-Goldfine Washington.

The worst moments of Franklin Roosevelt's and Harry Truman's administrations were not like this, possibly because neither Roosevelt nor Truman ever enjoyed the prolonged, almost universal adulation that President Eisenhower enjoyed in his first term.

Very soon after the famous hundred days, the opposition to Roosevelt became vocal and sometimes even vicious. Truman too had only a short honeymoon period, after which he had to fight strong and determined enemies on every side.

Maybe a determined opposition is a good thing for an administration, as exercise is good for the body.

Rough Patches

In any case, the Roosevelt and Truman administrations got over their rough patches without any of the symptoms of near-demoralization that meet the eye in Washington today.

There was never any sense of the whole show being out of control. There was never any feeling that the men in the White House would not or could not rally his troops and fight back, giving his enemies as good as he got.

In Washington today, however, you get just that sense and just that feeling. They have grown up by stages, and now they have begun to be pretty overpowering. First there were the Sputniks, which destroyed confidence in the President's defence program. Then there was the recession, and the long uncertainty of the administration's post-recession economic policy.

Now there is the curious case of Sherman Adams, which is somehow been much the worst of all. This case is the sort of thing that is bound to happen from time to time in modern government, which has such enormous favors to dispense to private interests.

The mistake that was made is a mistake that officials can easily and often innocently wander into, if they are excessively easy-going, like Harry Truman's Harry Vaughan, or passionately parsimonious, like Dwight Eisenhower's Sherman Adams.

only book which can truly enlighten mankind.

He himself has testified to a personal confidence in the Word of God: "We reject with scorn all those learned and labored myths that Moses was but a legendary figure upon whom the Priesthood and the people hung their essential social, moral and religious ordinances. We believe the most scientific view, the most up to date and rationalistic conception will find fullest satisfaction in taking the Bible story literally. . . . We may be sure that all these things happened just as they were set out according to Holy Writ. . . . That they were recorded and have been transmitted across the centuries with far more accuracy than many of the telegraphed accounts of the goings on of today. In the words of a forgotten book of Mr. Gladstone, 'we rest upon the impregnable rock of Holy Scripture.'

"Let the men of science and of learning expand their knowledge and prove with their researches every detail of the records which have been preserved to us from these dim ages.

"All they will do is to fortify the grand simplicity and essential accuracy of the recorded truths which have lighted so far the Pilgrimage of Man."

Christians can say with the psalmist 'Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path.'

'Gisburn' Gates

The householders in the new home at the southwest corner of Rockland Avenue and Moss Street have created a spot of beauty and at the same time have preserved the historic and very splendid stone and-iron gates of "Gisburn."

They have skillfully, and with much imagination and hard work, combined the old and the new, and the result is a corner of beauty and history.

Behind these wonderful old gates of "Gisburn" once stood a large mansion, built in 1890 by Robert Irving, and for many years the residence of the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rihet.

In too many instances are such historic gates and fences mowed down by bulldozers, when they might be left standing, and put to modern use, as has been done with the "Gisburn" gates.

The people here concerned are to be congratulated, and thanked, for what they have done to preserve this bit of our history.

JAMES K. NESBITT, chairman, Victoria section, B.C. Historical Association.

Imported Culture

On my return from Vancouver, having witnessed with keen appreciation the B.C. Centennial Searchlight Tattoo, I was shocked by the remarks of Judge J. B. Clearhue to new Canadians taking the oath of allegiance to Canada, as reported in your issue of June 26.

To me being English-born, the inclusion of the band of the Royal Marines both in the massed bands and also the ceremonial drill display by HMCS Naden provided the highlight of a most inspiring evening. While to my friend who accompanied me, a Scot, it was quite obvious that the massed pipes and Highland dancing was the premier attraction of the program.

Assuming that the Russian plane came to Vancouver at the invitation of the B.C. Centennial Committee and that Prince Bernhard was also invited to include British Columbia in his itinerary, I feel the remarks of the learned judge to be, to say the least, "undiplomatic."

It is with regret I sign myself, "A WORTHLESS CANADIAN."

Second Term

President Eisenhower did not wish to seek a second term after the sharp warning of his heart attack. He was persuaded to seek a second term, by those around him with Sherman Adams in the lead, by those in his party who had not rallied to his side, and by his auditors in the press who are now bitterly attacking him.

If the President had followed his own inclinations, laying down his heavy burden in 1956, he might have gone off to his farm in Gettysburg in a golden blaze of glory. But he yielded to the persuasions that came from so many sides. He carried the burden into another term.

His luck ran out. And for reasons that one can easily deduce from those three poignant words—"I need him"—the President seems to be unable to respond to the harsh challenge of his new situation.

Appalling Gestures

The old, Hagerty-planned gestures are made. Some of them are pretty appalling gestures, like the contrived visit to George Washington's sword of honor, which was also a "gift." In any case, whether good or bad, the Hagerty gestures no longer have the old effect. And yet there is no substitute for them.

Nor is this, alas, the end of the story. Anyone who has seen the Lebanese crisis at first hand can predict with certainty that the challenges that confront the President today are far milder than the challenges that will confront him tomorrow or the day after.

With our defence exposed as terrifyingly inadequate, with our economy still in mid-slump, with Sherman Adams still in the White House, the whole long-established system of American foreign relations also looks like coming apart at the seams. So still worse disarray must be expected in the future.

They're After Fish

UNITED NATIONS—These Russian trawlers on the Grand Banks are more interested in fishing than fission.

This is the opinion of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization and the Royal Canadian Navy, who both point out that the Russians have fished the Grand Banks before and they're not surprised to see them back. They point out that the Russians have one of the largest and best fishing fleets in the world and they operate anywhere, from the Arctic to the Antarctic, where it pays them to drag a trawl or throw a harpoon.

Burke

As far as espionage is concerned, Canadian naval officers tell me they doubt if the Russian vessels are engaged in any sinister operations. It's been frequently said, for example, that they drop radioactive markers on the ocean bottom which missile-firing submarines could later use to position themselves for launching missiles. Russians are also supposed to be mapping the ocean bottom for the same reasons. Canadian officers doubt this.

They have studied Russian operations with interest and as far as radioactive markers are concerned, they think these are used by the fishermen to assist in operations. In bad weather, for example, when navigators can't "shoot" the sun, the vessels use the radioactive markers to maintain position as they drag their trawls back and forth. They say the markers would be of slight use to undersea warriors interested in "shooting" Montreal.

It's been suggested that these markers would enable Russian submarines to travel submerged across the oceans and take up position off the North American coast, using markers as positioners, without ever coming to the surface. Canadian officers, however, doubt that Russians would operate this way. They think it's much more likely that submarines would stick up their periscopes or radio-navigation equipment for a quick check on position. Chances of detection would be almost zero.

Officers point out that the range at which a radioactive marker could be detected would be extremely limited and that submarines would have great difficulty finding them. In fact, a submarine would have to be "dead on" position in the first place before the marker could be picked up.

As far as mapping the ocean bottom is concerned, this is important to both fishermen and submariners. Fishermen, especially Russians who work with very large equipment, want to know what obstructions lie below. It is assumed that submariners are interested in establishing under-water landmarks to assist them in navigation, but naval officers say such under-water mapping would not be a vital part of Soviet submarine operations. Similar hydrographic studies are being carried out by all major navies.

It's assumed, of course, that the Russian navy is interested in all hydrographic information. Submariners would be interested in all information, for example, about currents which would affect under-water navigation, and about temperatures which affect operations of anti-submarine detection equipment. All such information is important to NATO officers and presumably to the Russians. Canadians doubt, however, that gathering such information is any more than a minor part of the operations of the Russian fleet on the Banks.

It's been pointed out that the number of Russian ships on the Grand Banks never varies and Americans, in particular, have regarded this as suspicious. Others, however, who know something about Russian fishing operations are not puzzled. They say this looks like the typical Russian method of operating—a certain number of ships of their world-wide fleet have been detailed to fish the Grand Banks and this is being done with typical Russian thoroughness. If they make money, they'll probably be back next year with more ships. If not, they'll go elsewhere.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

BBC Welcomes Canadians

LONDON—Bumped into Bernie Braden at the Television Gala at the Festival Hall and he tells me he's undertaken a marathon for BBC television. He's televised 20 to 15-minute programs in which he takes no fewer than 43 parts.

For Braden it's a hark-back to the old days in Canada when he used to do that Bernie Braden Reads a Story series on radio. But this time he enacts the parts before the TV cameras, doing a wide variety of make-up changes that are likely to out-Guinness Alec Guinness.

The BBC, excited about these Braden enactments of short stories, is going to give them to the public in one big dollop—one every night in the week through the month of October.

A frustrated soul ("I never wanted to be a funny man—it was wished on me"), Braden says that for 10 years ever since he and wife Barbara Kelly left Canada, he has been side-tracked from acting. He hopes that this October onslaught will free him of the "comic" label.

Also at this television gala evening (it was dancing and cabaret from 11 p.m. to 5.30 a.m., which I suppose earns it the label of gala) were enough Canadians to make one feel for the time being that one was around CBC headquarters in Toronto.

They included Neill MacCallum, Ted Kot-cheff, and Sydney Newman, all now under contract to commercial ABC-TV—MacCallum for seven years as an actor, Kotcheff for three years as a producer and Newman, former Toronto artist and Ottawa Film Boarder, newly appointed head of ABC's drama.

Newman, who gets the credit here for Canada's high position in the world of TV drama, had just put on his first play for his new employers and it got a mixed reception from the critics, including "he will have to do a lot better." But it was probably something he inherited from ABC's former drama chief.

My main reaction to the evening: the commercial television bosses here sure are sold on Canadians. Mentioning no names, even if they're a bit thin on talent and experience, they'll snap them up.

And while we're in the entertainment field...

Cec Linder, 37-year-old Polish-born Torontonian, getting rave notices for his playing of the star part in a television version of The Caine Mutiny Court-martial.

Beckoned to this country after his performance in the CBC's play Flight Into Danger, which the English are still talking about, Linder was pulled into Caine Mutiny when Hollywood's Paul Douglas went sick during rehearsals.

With only three days to get inside a part that would normally take three weeks, Linder memorized 40 minutes of dialogue (including a 10-minute solo speech) and delivered them flawlessly.

'TEXAS ROSE' NEARLY FATAL

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Three servicemen were rescued by police Monday night after a brisk battle in a bar in this city, which is bursting its buttons over prospects of being part of the union's biggest state.

"We didn't aim to start a fight," the crestfallen soldiers explained. "We only asked the orchestra to play 'Yellow Rose of Texas'."

Loan Bid Rejected, Douglas Flays PM

REGINA (CP) — Premier Douglas today termed "rank discrimination" the federal government's rejection of a request for a loan to finance part of the power section of the South Saskatchewan River dam project.

He said his government is "deeply disappointed," but may still sign an agreement to go ahead with the program.

The province had asked for a long-term loan of $25,000,000 to finance part of the power costs of the proposed power and irrigation project at Outlook, 80 miles southwest of Saskatoon. Prime Minister Diefenbaker confirmed in Brandon Monday that the request was turned down.

AID FOR OTHER AREAS

In a press release issued today, Premier Douglas said:

"In the light of the assistance which the dominion government has given to other parts of Canada, we cannot view Mr. Diefenbaker's rejection of Saskatchewan's application for a power loan as anything but rank discrimination against Saskatchewan."

The CCF premier said federal rejection of Saskatchewan's request is not in keeping with statements made before the Conservatives took office. Neither was it consistent with loans to other provinces.

B.C. NAVAL HERO GIVEN OTTAWA JOB

OTTAWA (CP) — Gordon Stead, distinguished wartime naval officer, today was appointed to a new $13,000-a-year job as director-general of the transport department's marine services.

The 45-year-old Vancouver-born economist, now a finance department official, will take over the transport 'job' of coordinating the department's work on canals, steamship inspections and marine service including a fleet of 50 ships and $25 barges.

A graduate of the University of British Columbia, Mr. Stead rose to the rank of lieutenant-commander during the Second World War. He won the Distinguished Service Cross for Malta operations in 1942 and a bar to his DSC in 1943.

'My Fur Lady' Devastating, But Thrilling

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

Any teacher, preacher, politician, parent or what have you who thinks they can pull wool—or fur parkas—over the eyes of youth, should see "My Fur Lady," the Canadian musical satire by McGill University students, premiered in Vancouver Monday.

They'd be brought up short with sagging jaw.

In fact it is quite devastating though thrilling to realize how clearly and uncompromisingly Canadian youth sees through the wrappings, the verbiage and shibboleths of our social order and institutions.

But make no mistake—this is entertainment, vigorous, fast, slight entertainment as good as anything most of us have seen since the last first-class American musical came our way.

The fact that it also makes you think is incidental—but greatly to its credit.

PUNCH ALL WAY

The pattern of "My Fur Lady" is obvious; Agnes de-Mille type choreography, fast blackouts, punch all the way.

But while the style of production is pure modern American, the actual writing, book and lyrics is tangy Canadian and brilliant.

Plot is typically slender—a mere excuse upon which to string such incongruities as a female Frenchified, red-headed RCMP guard whose narrow, narrow skirt was unzipped neatly from hemline to hipline when said RCMP launched her eye-filling legs on a dance routine.

Princess Aurora (a brunette peach with a shape—wow!)—of the Eskimo principality of Mukluks, somewhere of Baffin Island, must marry within a month or the principality will become part of Canada.

SPARES

Appalled at the thought, her people pack her off to Ottawa, headquarters of the RCMP "who always get their man and might have one or two to spare."

There she learns all about Canada, culture, the flag, universities, debentures, censorship, Elvis Presley, defence, love and war, the House of Commons, and winds up by marrying the governor-general.

Some of the comedy is fairly obvious and routine; there are moments when the intention behind a scene just doesn't come off and when the non-professional shows rather plainly through the veneer.

"DON'T MISS"

Quality reaches peaks with such numbers as "Canadiana" sung by the Cultural Squad, a trio of "very civil servants," two student numbers, "Next Week is Work Week," with cheerleader and chorus, and "Eulogy to Elvis" and the debutante waltz, "I'm So Glad You Could Pay for Me Dad."

The show will be playing Vancouver two weeks—unfortunately not a day in Victoria. So if you can fly or swim the straits it's a sure-fire "don't miss."

Belmont Gives Silver Medal To Admiral

Flag Officer Pacific Coast, Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, presented citizenship and centennial awards Sunday as the naval community of Belmont Park observed Citizenship Day ceremonies.

Later, residents, represented by town manager and centennial committee chairman, O. R. Michalko, presented a silver centennial medal to the admiral in recognition of his assistance in community youth work.

SCROLLS

The ceremonies took place at John Stubbs Memorial School. Dean of Medicine At UBC Going To Tennessee Post

Dr. John W. Patterson, Dean of Medicine at the University of British Columbia since June, 1956, has designed to become director of medical affairs and dean of the faculty of medicine at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee.

Announcing Dean Patterson's resignation, Dr. Norman MacKenzie, president of UBC, described him as "an able scientist and authority in the field of medical education."

"We shall all miss the drive and energy he has shown in meeting the problems of a new medical faculty and in trying to overcome them," Dr. MacKenzie said.

QUICK-THINKER

Teen-Ager Saves Boy From River

SOOKE — Quick thinking by 14-year-old Patricia Hancock was responsible Sunday for saving the life of a 10-year-old visitor from Santa Cruz, who tumbled into Sooke River while fishing.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hancock of Sooke Hotel, she was on the hotel veranda when she heard cries from across the river.

Seeing a boy in trouble, she ran across the bridge to the opposite bank, then dived in and pulled him to shore.

He was taken to the hotel, where his clothes were dried for him, then was taken to his grandparents.

They are visiting here from Santa Cruz, and brought the lad with them for a holiday.

A gentle finger-touch, and locks trigger open. Close them — and they stay closed, even in a pile-up. Wrinkle-causing humidity is completely sealed out.

The Lightness! — Pick it up and you'll know instantly that this is the lightness of magnesium, the lightness you've hoped for in luggage, but never thought possible, until now. 'But Where Are Great Cities?'

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

On her 91st birthday Canada might have been Canada Anonymous for all the nation's $50,000,000 new micro-wave network showed of her during a 90-minute inaugural telecast Tuesday afternoon.

If the Fathers of Confederation had looked in they pardonably might have asked, "Where are the great cities we envisioned in our dreams in Charlottetown all those years ago?"

For, as the live cameras whisked from the Atlantic to the Pacific in a twinkling of an eye, Canada seemed altogether rural.

Beyond a glimpse of Toronto's skyline, a statue of Champlain in Quebec City, some distant shots of Winnipeg, Regina and Vancouver—and I've seen better mirages on a hot summer's day—the cameras seemed totally concerned with showing how clever they were instead of all the wondrous things they could bring to the homebound viewer.

In CBC headquarters, Toronto, commentators Joyce Davidson and Rene Levesque proved only that Canada was bilingual.

Behind the scenes, however, there was someone who wasn't going to take any chances.

While M. Levesque gesticulated and mouthed words and fought with what sounded like the beginning or aftermath of a severe cold, this English voice rose above everything, explaining possibly what M. Levesque was saying in French.

SWITCH-HAPPY

And, to make matters even more of a "puzzlement" for the millions watching, someone behind scenes became switch-happy. Scenes became not so much scenes as a parody on some ethereal game of hop-skip and jump.

One second the viewer was in Regina, the next in Quebec, the next heaven knows where as the commentator failed to keep track of the seven-league paces.

If one accepted the CBC telecast at its face value Canada is unique in the world of nations. From east to west, a distance of some 4,000 miles, it is contained in one time zone.

Or at least that what it seemed like.

For instance, in one of the most thrilling shots of the entire telecast, the cameras jumped from a west coast tugboat to a lobster fisherman in the Maritimes. But did anyone mention what time it was in Halifax compared to Vancouver? No, no one did, not at any time.

Altogether it was a most disappointing show, a far cry from the private demonstration for the press of Canada held on June 18, which was a marvel.

EXAMS 5,488 MILES AWAY
B.C. High School Girl Graduates Long Distance

Leone Leslie Smith, a 16-year-old high school senior at Lord Byng High School, Vancouver, took her final examinations and graduated with her class Friday—5,488 miles from her school.

Leone's father, Sgt. Frank Smith, of the Canadian Army, has been assigned to the Canadian Embassy in Tokyo, Japan. It was necessary for Sgt. Smith, Mrs. Smith and Leone to sail from San Francisco June 12 on American President Lines' S.S. President Cleveland to arrive in Japan for Sgt. Smith to take his new post.

When the B.C. department of education required that Leone take the examinations on the same date as other B.C. pupils, the Smiths had a problem. On the test days, they would be at sea, midway between San Francisco and Yokohama.

Informed of the problem,

BULLFIGHTERS TO HURT MORE THAN BULLS

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP)—Bloodless bullfights scheduled here Aug. 2 and 4 will be more dangerous to the bullfighter than to the bull, the sponsors say.

Jack Conway of Waterloo, Ont., publicity director for the event, says the bulls will suffer less than calves roped in a rodeo. But the toreadors, without their usual swords and carrying only two blunted banderillas and a cape, will be in double the danger of a regular bullfight.

Century-Old Engineer Drill Here Friday

The uniform and drill of the Royal Engineers of a century ago will be shown here on the lawn of the Legislative Building at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

There will be a RE color guard, marched by eight members of the Royal Canadian Engineers from Chilliwack.

"Changing of the Guard—RE-1858 to RE-1958" will be featured, together with drill.

Uniforms of 100 years ago will be worn. A 28-man drum and bugle band will be in attendance. The Royal Engineers, touring B.C., were brought from Britain by the centennial committee.

They were here in 1858 and did much for both construction and administration in those early days.

ERRANT KNIGHT 'VERY SILLY'

Wife Ready to Forgive and Forget

LONDON (AP)—Lady Molly Huggins says her husband, Sir John, former governor of Jamaica, has run off to Italy with another woman.

"If he will come home, I will forgive him," she told reporters. "But if he stays away I am going to have to think of a divorce."

Lady Huggins said the other woman is Mrs. Margaret Hitchcock, owner of a dress shop near the Huggins' home in Farnham, Surrey. Sir John is 66 and a grandfather.

Mrs. Hitchcock, whose husband works for a telegraph company, is in her 40's and has a small daughter.

"And I," said Lady Molly, "am 50. Isn't it awful?"

Lady Molly said Sir John and

Mrs. Hitchcock have been traced to a hotel in Rapallo. To make matters worse, Italy is where he took Lady Molly on their honeymoon 29 years ago.

"He is being very silly," said Lady Huggins. "I don't think I shall follow him to Italy. I don't suppose he will be there long. He's a little old for that sort of thing."

Sir John and his wife have three grown daughters, one of whom has three children. Lady

SOME VOLUNTEERS, SOME DRAFTEES

Skipper 'Offloads' 26

GALIANO (CR)—The Gulf Islands ferry Lady Rose was carrying 126 passengers—26 more than her legal limit for high-seas travel—when she arrived here from the annual lamb barbecue on Saturna Island.

Captain James Brayshaw asked for 26 volunteers who would be willing to disembark and wait to be picked up later.

Only 17 agreed to step off the ship. When the "passenger mutiny" still pre-valled an hour later, the skipper got in touch with company officials in Vancouver and was instructed to order nine more to disembark.

The Lady Rose finally weighed anchor at 9:30 p.m., bound for Steveston, on the mainland. It returned here at about 2:30 a.m. today to pick up the volunteers and the "draftees," plus a number of other passengers—about 60 in all.

Chemainus Youth Soapbox Titlist

MISSION CITY (CP)—David Woodley of Chemainus won the 12th annual Western Canada Soapbox Derby here Tuesday, edging out Jimmy Stevens of Port Alberni by inches in the final.

Woodley, 11, will now enter the world title Derby at Akron, Ohio, in mid-August.

His winning time was 22.67 seconds.

He was the first winner from B class, the 11 and 12-year group, in the history of the Western Canada derby.

An estimated 10,000 people saw 186 boys race in 103 heats.

(Boys race in heats of three cars each, working up through eliminations until only three drivers remain for the final.)

In the Class B final race, the one that set him up for the championship, Woodley defeated Doug Allen of Prince George, second, and Ian Brand of Chemainus, third.

Terry Pearson, Vernon, won fourth prize in this class. Steve Cripps, Naramata, won fifth and Ronnie Blake, Wellington, sixth.

In Class A, Jim Stevens edged out Bill Gagnon of North Burnaby, and Don Freeland of Peace River came third.

Winners of fourth, fifth and sixth in Class A were Wayne Leblanc of Lumby, Doug Strelbel of Chilliwack and Dick Hembling of Vernon.

Woodley received the E. N. Cole trophy, the champion's personal award, from Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross after the race. He also received the Cog Grinders' award, a perpet-

Duncan Man Dies in Fall From Truck

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP)—A 24-year-old Duncan man was killed after falling from the cab of a moving truck on the Chilcotin Road, 22 miles west of here.

Nathaniel Robert Wright died Sunday of head and internal injuries a few hours after the accident. A passenger in the truck, he fell to the road when the door flew open as the truck went up a hill.

The survivors include five brothers, William, Hugh and Donald, of Duncan; Charles, of Victoria, and David, with the RCAF in France, and two sisters, Mrs. William Ferris, of Harrow, Ont., and Mrs. Delmar Leslie, of Duncan.

LABOR SEEKS CIVIC VOICE

NANAIMO (CP)—Civic committees of the Nanaimo and District Labor Council have been instructed to staff-picking candidates to contest civic elections at Duncan, Nanaimo and the Alberni next December.

"We don't want to try to run things, but we do want to be in a position to present the views of organized labor on municipal councils," said president J. F. Colwell.

Churches Join In Farewell To Minister

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Congregations of Shawnigan Lake and Mill Bay United Churches held a joint farewell party in the church hall here for Rev. Howard Turpin, who has been appointed to Esquimalt United Church.

Addresses were made by W. Kennedy for Shawnigan Lake, and G. Rodgers, Mill Bay. Girls' choirs were directed by Mrs. E. Gibson and Mrs. R. Y. Calderwood, and women's auxiliaries served refreshments.

The two congregations made a joint presentation of a walnut coffee table to Mr. and Mrs. Turpin.

Now, low-cost employee insurance benefits, for small business

Now, employers of fewer than 25 people can make the benefits of low cost insurance available to their employees.

Metropolitan is offering an Employee Benefit Plan, which can be written for as few as 4 employees. It offers protection against the financial losses caused by death, injury and illness.

Three basic areas can be covered by this new plan:

1. Life insurance for employees.
2. Weekly Indemnity Benefits for employees unable to work because of non-occupational accident or sickness.
3. Surgical Expense coverage for employees and their dependents (or for employees only) for non-occupational accident or sickness.

Since it entered the group insurance field in 1917, Metropolitan has written thousands of employee insurance contracts, covering many millions of employees. This vast experience has gone into the formulation of this special plan for small business.

A Metropolitan Employee Benefit Plan not only furnishes the important basic coverages for employees and their dependents, but it provides a foundation on which more effective personal and family insurance programs can be safely and economically built.

Why not call your Metropolitan Representative today. He will welcome the opportunity to present the complete details of this remarkable Employee Benefit Plan at any time, because...

WINNIPEG (CP)—Sparked by a standout bowling and batting performance by Garry Girvan of Oshawa, Ontario Tuesday bettered British Columbia for 119 runs and four wickets in the second round of the double round-robin Canadian junior cricket championships.

TRAPSHOOTING TEAM

Alberta, Ontario Shots Get Berths

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three trapshooters from Alberta and three from Ontario will represent Canada at the world shooting championships in Moscow Aug. 15-25.

The team was named Tuesday at the conclusion of the national championships.

Members are: Ron Budesheim, 22, Drumheller, Alta., who led the qualifiers with 77 points in the complicated scoring system based on doubles and singles shooting and a trial on the special Olympic style traps; Gil Henderson, 30, Long Branch, Ont., 73 points, winner of the doubles and high overall Canadian title; Floyd Natrass, 40, Calgary, 71 points, last year's singles champion; Tom Oliver, Toronto, 47, president of the Canadian Trapshooting Association, 70 points; Keith Blanchett, 19, Edmonton, 69 points, winner of the actual Olympic test; and Roy Cole, 46, Hamilton, 68 points, spare.

Cole will also shoot for Canada in the running deer event with rifles.

SEVEN QUIT

Twenty-three shooters qualified to try out, seven dropped out before the final test for various reasons. Others dropped out as the test went on. Earl Caldwell, newly crowned Canadian singles champion from Vancouver and former Olympic team member, dropped out halfway through when he was leading the field. He gave his reason as "business pressures."

Two records were set Monday in the singles and high overall events.

Caldwell won the singles with 494 out of a possible 500 and Johannesburg, South Africa—Johnny Van Rosburg, 142, South Africa, knocked Chico Santos, 140, Portugal, 8.

VICTORIA LEADS CRICKET SERIES

Gil's Bat, Walter's Arm Wreck Vancouver Hopes

Victoria's representative cricket side is well on the way toward retaining the Flummerfelt Cup.

The Victorians opened the annual home-and-home series for Mainlanders by 72 runs at Beacon Hill Park Tuesday.

The series will be concluded at Vancouver on Labor Day.

Gil Ferriera and Walter Tait played starring roles in the impressive triumph.

Opening batsman, Ferriera batted up 70 runs before being caught by Stan Hansen off the bowling of Don Blackmore.

Peter Clarke contributed 20 runs as the Victoria side scared 138 while batting first.

Peter Booth batted for 20 runs when Vancouver went in to bat, but Vancouver's hopes were snuffed out as the tail-end of their batting collapsed, the last six men being dismissed for only 18 runs.

Tait took three successive wickets while allowing only 4 runs. Ken Ackroyd captured two Vancouver wickets for 11 runs.

Sidney Day Exciting Success

OLD-TIMER Bill Roberts, representing all Sidney and North Saanich pioneers, gets gift from SANSCHA president's wife, Mrs. Fred Gilbert, dressed in costume to match the occasion. Theme of the celebration which started Saturday was 100 years of progress. (Jorgen Svendsen Photos.)

MONTÉ ROBERTS

So this man ups to me, and he says, I hear you're a Winnipegian.

So I ups to this man and I says, no, I ain't no Winnipegian.

So this man ups to me, and he says, but I was just told you came from Winnipeg.

And I says to this man, I lived in Winnipeg once, but that doesn't make me a Winnipegian.

So what does it make you, this man says to me.

It makes me a former resident of Winnipeg, I says to this man.

So this man ups to me again, and he says, ahah, I told you so, you are a Winnipegian, or at the very least, an EX-Winnipegian.

No I am not, I says to this man. I am an ex-Winnipegger, I says.

So this man looks at me suspiciously, and he asks me, did you ever live in Toronto.

So I admits to this man, yes, I once lived in Toronto (you should call this living?)

So this man says, when you lived in Toronto, what were you?

And I tell this man, when I lived in Toronto, I was a Torontonian.

So this man ups to me again, and he says, I've got you now. In Toronto, you were a Torontonian. In Winnipeg, you were a Winnipegian.

I live in Victoria now, I says to this man, in fact I was born here, what does that make me? It says to this man.

A Victorian, this man says to me, I know me English accent, he says to me.

So I looks this man straight in the eye, and this man looks me back straight in the eye, and then I ups to this man and I says, I also used to live in Chilliwack, I says. And what does THAT make me?

Chilliwacky, this man says to me.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Top government and civic officials will be on hand for July 8 ceremonial opening of the reconstructed Malahat section of the Trans-Canada Highway.

The ceremony is set just a few days before Princess Margaret will travel the route between Victoria and Duncan.

Ceremonies set for 6 p.m. at Malahat Chalet, 15 miles from Victoria, will be attended by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi and other members of the B.C. cabinet.

John Guzzwell, yachtsman from Victoria who was reported June 14 as missing off the east coast of Australia, today wired that he is alive and well.

"Everything okay, publicity lousy," he stated in a telegram to a Victoria friend. It had been sent from Brisbane.

Mr. Guzzwell, an English-born cabinet maker, built his 18-foot yawl Trekkia in Victoria, then left in April, 1956, for the South Pacific. He was reported missing on a cruiser from Coff's Harbor to Brisbane.

"Welcome Ashore" hospital-ity post for sailors visiting here during fleet week, July 9 to 16, opened in the armed services centre today.

A special telephone number—5-9721—will be manned by IODE volunteers from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, to accept offers of hospitality for British, U.S. and Canadian sailors taking part in the big navy show which culminates in the review by Princess Margaret-July 15.

More than 4,000 visiting sailors will be in port.

Total value of new construction in Esquimalt to the end of June this year is greater than the total for all of 1957.

Building officials today said 141 permits with a total value of $661,001 have been issued in the first six months of 1958. Throughout 1957 the total was $880,208.

Last month Esquimalt issued permits for 11 dwellings worth $139,600 and nine miscellaneous buildings valued at $27,673. Last year in June there were seven dwellings and 10 miscellaneous buildings started, with a value of $105,500.

Despite the CPR shipping strike, the number of visitors registered at the Legislative Buildings here has increased 30 per cent over the same period in 1957.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett noted today, there were 995 signatures in the visitors' book during June last year and 1,293 this June.

"It is estimated that only one in four sign the book," the premier added.

City police ambulance took 85-year-old Miss Henna Thompson, 1476 Gladstone to St. Joseph's Hospital suffering shock, back and scalp injuries after she fell down three basement stairs Tuesday, at 2:40 p.m.

A group of 15 or 20 young men intentionally damaged new pedal-driven boats which were to be rented at Thetis Lake, concession operator Otto Althaus told city council by letter Monday. As a result, Mr. Althaus said it would be necessary to cancel plans for the boat rental business at Thetis. He asked if he could conduct it instead at Beaver Lake.

Five Doukhobors including three women entered not guilty pleas in city police court today on a joint charge of assault causing bodily harm to provincial welfare chief Miss Ruby McKay last Friday.

All were remanded for trial to July 7 and their bail remains unchanged at $500 each.

The accused are Tiny Esvovaloff, Mrs. Ann Barisoff, Nastia Barisoff, William Podovennikoff and Tim Janaff.

They appeared as a delegation in Miss McKay's office at the Legislature, after which meeting the assault is alleged to have taken place. Miss McKay received face and body scratches and was in mild shock but was not taken to hospital.

Thursday Meetings
Rotary: 6 p.m., Duke of Kent room, Empress Hotel. Annual installation ceremonies.
Sermons: 12:15 p.m., James Bay Hotel.
St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society, Holyrood House, 8 p.m. Thursday. Meeting to be followed by quadrilles for all Scottish groups.

By AB KENT, Times Staff Reporter

A small boy in tattered clothing, clutching a frayed straw hat in one hand grinned through the dirt on his face and held up a shiny centennial silver dollar in the other.

"See? A silver dollar," he crowed to his friends, who demanded: "Where'dja get it?"

"I won it in the parade."

For the moment nine-year-old Bruce McNeill was the happiest boy at Sandown Park on sunny Dominion Day where a record throng showed up for Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association's annual Sidney Day.

But young Bruce, the best "Bum" in the parade with the costume he made himself, had to share his elation with hundreds of other kids in a day full of fun and adventure for the young and young at heart.

There was something for everyone—the parade with its pretty girls, horses, page-antry, fire engines; floats and clowns; the crowning of Queen SANSCHA, Beasley Hill, 18, of Cordova Bay; sports car and motorcycle competition; hot dogs, soda pop, carnival games, rides, exhibitions, exotic dancers, Japanese wrestling, Scottish pipers, drill teams.

Last program of a jam-packed Sidney Day was a mardi gras ball at SANSCHA's brand new hall where Lloyd Ducharme, of Sidney, was named the enviable winner of a two-week, all-expense trip to Hawaii.

Big Crowds at All Shows

Officials estimated 2,500 people had entered Sandown Park by late afternoon to see the fun, and there were still two hours of entertainment ahead. During the previous two nights of the four-day centennial celebration an estimated 1,000 people a night were admitted to the Community Hall.

For grandstand spectators Tuesday, stage numbers and track and infield events kept necks swivelling to keep up with the fast-paced show.

Most thrilling were the mounted games by members of Colwood Trail Riders and racing by Victoria Motorcycle Club.

But one of the biggest gasps from the stands came when can-can dancer Donna Peck made a spectacular one-point landing in the middle of a particularly high kick. She got up and carried on with partner Jill Pinniger.

The day got underway with the parade from downtown Sidney at 10 a.m., and like the Pied Piper it led a jostling public to Sandown.

Its theme was 100 years of progress in the Sidney and North Saanich areas, with floats contrived to depict the milestones; like a model rum runner's vessel which would tie up brazenly to conduct its illicit business at Sidney's public dock in a romantic era long gone.

Another float represented the first school house, which in those days served also as meeting place and community hall.

Relics of Industrial Era

Other vehicles carried working steam whistles from the lumber camps and cannery which founded the peninsula's economy, sole vestige of an industrial era.

Their plaintive toots must have been nostalgic to some of the special group of old-timers invited to take part in the celebration.

Patriarch Bill Roberts, 82, representative of senior citizens, accepted a gift from Mrs. Fred Gilbert, wife of SANSCHA president.

crimson gladiolus blooms while pet Barbara Whipple, queen of 1957, placed on her head the tiara of office as princesses Cathy Slater and Judy Grimshaw looked on.

Then events began in quick succession on stage, on the track, in front of the stands and in the infield. Smart-stepping Sidney Girls' Drill Team drilled out the letters S-I-D-N-E-Y to a staccato drum beat; the pipe band of Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) cadets performed and Saddle-Lites square dancers did their traditional cow country steps.

'Cow Skin' Race by Riders

On the track the Trail Riders staged a cow skin race and girls' horse race, won respectively by Alex Loelle and Bruce Borden, and Barbara Painter.

In the first, one rider lies on a cow hide roped to his partner's saddle horn and hangs on through flying clouds of dust as the horse races other teams to the finish line.

Victoria Motor Sports Club got into the infield act with a gymkhana of two four-car teams vying for top points in an afternoon series of events such as the serpentine race, in which cars were wheeled adroitly in an out of a row of stakes against cars of the opposite team.

Balloon bursting was another, in which young lady passengers leaned out with pointed sticks as drivers went past a row of stakes with balloons affixed, the object to pop them all in the shortest time.

Sports cars taking part included Triumph TR 2s and 3s, MGs, a Morgan and Jaguar.

On stage again the undulations of hula dancer Valerie Parkin, her dark brown hair waving with her arms, drew full male attention.

Then a wave of laughter swept the park as on the track, junior riders in a pony race let things get out of hand. Their mounts surged down the stretch, one weaving through the field and still managing to keep a neck behind the winner, crossed the finish line and kept going around the turn and into the back stretch heedless of entreaties to stop.

One pony dumped its rider in the heavy dust and confusion, but without injury.

All This, and Judo, Too

The stage show, directed by Bert Binney with MC Robert Hullock, also featured tap dancers Don Leckie and Valerie Parkin, singer Dianne Hogarth and accordionist Ron Korhonen, who also appeared at the mardi gras.

As a special feature, members of the new Victoria Judo Club demonstrated a number of throws and falls used in weaponless combat and against persons using small arms, knives or other dangerous instruments.

Winner of the motorcycle club's three-heat race on track and infield was Tom Richardson, with runners-up Bill Smith and Wes Morhart.

Team "B" with 345 points was winner of the sports car gymkhana, leading team "A."

Woman's Death 'Accidental' Inquest Finds

A coroner's jury today brought in a verdict of accidental death at the inquest on Mrs. Wah Lee, 66, 1822 1/2 Government.

She died in hospital at 2:50 a.m. Saturday, after being in collision with a car at Government and Chatham, at 1:25 a.m.

Driver of the car was Gordon W. Donaldson, Lake Cowichan. He has been charged with criminal negligence, and a preliminary hearing is set for next Tuesday.

Because he has been charged, coroner Dr. E. C. Hart did not permit Donaldson to give evidence at the inquest.

The jury heard evidence from a passenger in Donaldson's car, Ross W. Elmes of Lake Cowichan, and three eyewitnesses, Stephen Ward, 3941 La Salle Rd.; Bruce McLay, 403 Bay St., and Raymond Doucette, 601 Trutch St.

PNE Ideas Asked For Colwood Fair

B.C. Agricultural Association, with a 50-year lease to the old Colwood Park race track property for exhibition and racing purposes, will go to the Pacific National Exhibition for advice in developing the 130-acre tract.

Alex Hill, secretary of the association, said a committee would be sent to interview the PNE manager, and to find professional advice on the laying out of the grounds.

"We want the best technical advice possible," he said. "We likely will start in a small way, but we want everything to be right, and of the best."

One of the first projects in mind, he said, is construction of a large building suitable for sports, conventions, meetings and concerts.

Instead of the five-year period originally granted under terms of the lease with the national defence department, that owns the land.

BEST DEAL
"We are going to see who will give us the best deal," Mr. Hill said. "We feel we have something valuable to offer, and that several groups will be interested."

Original plans called for development of the land as site of a first-class fair with a horse racing season. It is hoped to see both in operation by 1959.

Officers of the association, elected Monday night, are Arthur H. Cox, president; George Harknett, Jr., first vice-president; W. S. Norrington, second vice-president; H. R. Milburn, third vice-president; J. G. Bremner, A. Brown and S. R. Bowdler, executive members.

On the race course committee are K. R. "Doc" Darbyshire, Mr. Harknett and Mr. Milburn.

"Doc Darbyshire resigned as president because he felt business interests keep him in Vancouver too much," Mr. Hill said.

"He said that with the organization becoming active, a Victoria man should be president."

Four Hurt in City In Three-Car Crashes

Two three-car collisions sent four people to city hospitals Monday and Dominion Day in one of the city's best-behaved holidays.

Three of the four were taken to Jubilee Hospital at midnight Tuesday and one was detained with injuries received in a crash at Gorge and Milgrove.

Two drivers, Cecil H. Hill of Cobble Hill, and Robert Nelson, RCN, pleaded not guilty in Saanich police court today to charges of impaired driving and were remanded for trial.

Fourth injured person was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital about five hours after a three-car smash on Douglas near Burnside at 12:27 p.m. Monday.

He was John D. Ralph, 847 Vernon, who was detained with suspected back injury and discharged Tuesday.

Albert Delahoy, 2853 Murray, is in "fairly good" condition today at Jubilee with head and leg injuries received in the midnight collision.

His wife, with unspecified injuries, and driver Dorothy Housley, 2736 Seaview, with knee injury, were X-rayed and released from Jubilee.

Saanich police said a small car driven by Hill was stopped facing east on Gorge waiting to turn left at Milgrove.

Hill's car was struck on the left rear by an auto driven east on Gorge by Nelson, which then careened into the wrong lane and into the path of the Housley car, police said.

The Monday accident happened about 300 feet north of Burnside as a car driven by Ronald N. Trickett, 4261 Torquay, going south on Douglas was in collision with the rear of the Ralph car, which then was in collision with the third car, also driven south, by Dietrich Serger, 4012 McLillard, city police said.

"Damage to Ralph's car was heavy, to Trickett's medium and to Serger's light."

Fish Dispute Outlook Dim

Further talks will be held Thursday in an attempt to avert a strike by B.C.'s 5,000 salmon fishermen, but the outlook is not bright, United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union secretary Homer Stevens said today.

The fishermen voted 90.26 per cent in favor of strike action following fish price offers by the B.C. Fisheries Association that are 5 to 10 per cent less than those paid last year.

Mr. Stevens told The Times the 1958 price offers represent reductions, up to three cents a pound for salmon.

He said the association offered 25 cents a pound for sockeye salmon, compared with 28 cents last year; 14 cents for coho, compared with 15½; nine cents for pinks, compared with 9½.

Union demands per pound respectively were 30, 18 and 11 cents.

Gyro Carnival Sets Objective Of $10,000

Victoria Gyro Club hopes to raise $10,000 for the development of its children's park at Cadboro Bay from the annual Gyro Carnival which opens in the grounds of Central Junior High School at 7 tonight.

The official opening by deputy Mayor Ald. Arthur Dowell will be at 8 p.m. The reeves of Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay also will attend.

Trio Saved From Fire On Boat

Rented Vessel Total Loss; Cruiser Picks Up Survivors

Three Victorians, one of them a young woman expecting a child in 10 days, were taken from a blazing boat in Saanich Inlet Tuesday night after a futile battle to extinguish the flames.

Died were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bowcott, Battery Street, who are expecting the child shortly, and Mrs. Donna Brown, a friend of the couple.

They had hired the boat at Anglers' Rentals in Brentwood for an evening of fishing, and were just preparing to return to the float when the fire broke out, apparently under the fuel tank.

GOT WORSE
"It wasn't bad until we turned a fire extinguisher on it," Mrs. Brown said later. "Then it seemed to get worse."

The three were crowded on the bow of the craft, 15 feet in length and with a cabin, when their predicament was noted by Mr. and Mrs. William J. D. Hoskyn, 3914 Hobbs Road, and a friend while they were travelling nearby in their 20-foot cruiser.

"We nosed right up to the bow of the burning boat, and took them off directly on to our own," Mrs. Hoskyn said today. "When we reached shore a doctor, ambulance and police were there, but Mr. and Mrs. Bowcott and Mrs. Brown were okay."

DOCTOR'S CARE
Mrs. Bowcott, however, was placed under her doctor's care immediately to check for possible injury suffered in making the difficult crossing from one vessel to the other.

James H. Gilbert, of Gilbert's Marine Services, eventually put the fire out and towed the

Mt. View Band Tuning Up For Stampede

Mount View High School Band is busy tuning up for the Calgary Stampede next week.

The 36 boy and girl instrumentalists will compete in the high school and open class band contests at Calgary next Sunday and will give concerts at Calgary and Edmonton.

Leaving the school at 2 p.m. Thursday they will travel by bus to Nanaimo and cross to Vancouver by ferry. They will journey to Calgary in a private tourist car preparing their own meals en route.

There will be a one-day stop-over at Banff.

"The band is in fine form," Howard Denike, their conductor, said today, "and naturally we think our chances are pretty good."

Mount View High School Band were placed second in the recent Victoria Music Festival and won third place in the Victoria Day parade May 19.

In charge of the instrumentalists will be Mr. and Mrs. Denike and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Matthews.

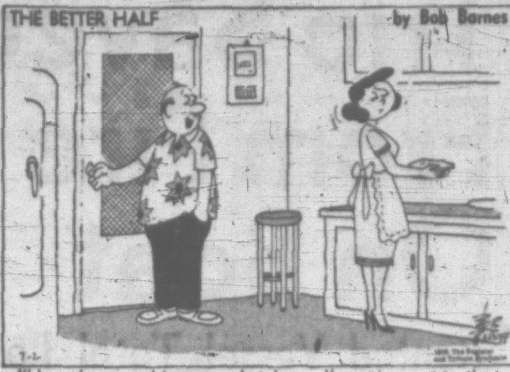

The resolution will not, however, be adopted as an official Jaycee pronouncement unless it is ratified by the national board since it did not receive a clear three to one majority.

Only resolution to be unanimously endorsed by the convention was an internal one proposing the formation of a national committee to investigate the total participation of all Jaycee units in Canada in the international organization.

Among defeated resolutions was a request to the government to supervise more closely the conduct of business in Canada by United States interests.

Light Paper-Back Books Good for Summer Reading

By PENNY SAVER

Light books for light reading are just the thing during the holiday season! Think how easy paper-back copies of best sellers are to pack in the valise for travelling or in a basket for the beach.

I've found the best in this type of reading in a local book store... and at a very low price!

If you've ever read English murder mysteries, you'll know what I mean when I say "sus-pense"! Chock full of frightening adventures that involve interesting characters, the mysteries are enough to make anyone just a little shivery. Mysteries in paper back copies are 35 cents and up.

Paul Brickhill's famous "Reach for the Sky" is now out in a paper back. It's a wonderful piece of work for "can't put that book down" reading! The price? It's reasonable at 35 cents.

There's hardly a man who doesn't go for reading war books. So, if the man in your house has a birthday coming up, you won't want to skip buying him a gift like this! C. S. Forester's books include "The General," "The Gun" or "Death to the French." The price is low for the many hours of enjoyment... just 50 cents a copy.

A new set of publications is out under the heading of Canadian Library. Modernistic, illustrated books including works of Stephen Leacock, Sinclair Ross and many other Canadian authors. Books are priced at $1 each.

The "How to Do It" books are terrific! How to make hors d'oeuvres, canapés, cocktails, how to choose and serve wines are only a few of the subjects in this set of small colorful books. Each one is priced at 95 cents... they are stiff backed.

Many happy holiday hours can be spent behind the pages of a book! Phone my number 2-3131 if you are looking for this type of enjoyment.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

How to thank son's host:

My son, who is stationed in Germany, just spent two weeks with his buddy at the home of the buddy's uncle and aunt in England. They were wonderful to him, treating him like one of the family. They gave him a tea-pot to give to me. Of course I am writing them a letter of thanks and ap-Louise Davis preception, but what can I send them that would be acceptable? Or shouldn't I send a gift at all?

guess that you sent it. The assumption might be that he asked you to get something for him, but they would surmise that you aided and abetted the idea. That is what you hope they would think. It would be nice if you could give something that is not readily found in England. If you decide not to "reciprocate" now, how about waiting until Christmas time and send a remembrance then, along with another note of appreciation for making your son's furlough such an enjoyable one?

A red carnation corsage was presented to Mrs. Ralph Davis, the former Miss Rosalie Dionne who was married last weekend, at a shower given at the home of Miss June Blackwood on Cardigan Road, prior to the wedding. Form Guard at Wedding At St. Aidan's Church

Victoria Girls' Drill Team formed a guard of honor outside St. Aidan's United Church following the wedding of Miss Rosalie Dionne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dionne of Mowat Street and Ralph Norman Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Davis of Bay Street.

Rev. A. I. Avery officiated at the ceremony. Traditional music was played by organist Mrs. M. Avery. "I Love You Truly" was sung by Mrs. E. Oliver during signing of the register.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the dark-haired bride was radiant in a floor-length gown of white taffeta. It featured a gathered waistline and the bodice had lily-point sleeves and a sequin studded jacket. Finger-tip veil mistled from a tiara of pearls and sequins. She carried a white-prayer book topped with a cascade of red roses and white carnations.

Gowns of soft blue net over taffeta were worn by matron of honor Mrs. E. Liska and bridesmaids Misses June Blackwood and Kay Minckler. All wore matching bandeaux. Matron of honor carried a bouquet of yellow and white carnations and the bridesmaids, pink and white carnations.

Guy May was best man and ushers were George Liska and Emil Liska.

A four-tier wedding cake centred the bridal table at a reception in St. Alban's church hall. It was flanked by silver candelabra and white candles.

Grandfather of the bride, J. H. Connor proposed the toast.

Travelling on a honeymoon on the Island, the bride wore a coral nylon net-dress posed over coral toned silk in ballerina length. She topped the dress with a black duster coat and white accessories. Her corsage was miniature white gladioli.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis will make their home at 191 Olive Street.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A Hobby for Free Time

The way we spend our leisure time is becoming more and more important since we have so much more of it than we had in the past. Modern appliances and gadgets have given women in the home more time for indulgence in personal interests and activities, and the work week has shrunk greatly.

A little more time away from the routine responsibilities can add a bonus to life, and the way we spend it has a great impact on our health and happiness. We all need a hobby or avocation to make this special time rewarding.

There are so many fields which beckon one. There are painting or ceramics or wood carving and all sorts of other handicrafts. Many men find cabinet making extremely fascinating and are very skilled. I know one scientist who makes the most beautiful inlaid furniture I have ever seen. It would be sky high in price in a New York Fifth Avenue shop. However, creative hobby is always satisfying, skill or no skill. If you have a yen for one of these, do not let the fact that you are unskilled stop you.

Then of course there is the world of music. Whether you make up little tunes and pick them out on the piano, or collect records or learn to play a musical instrument, the pull of music is fundamental and stimulating and soothing. You can learn to play the piano or violin, saxophone or guitar at any age. The ukelele is fun to play and is easy to learn.

Sports can be very healthful hobbies. These are especially valuable for those who do not have superlative health and wish to improve it.

It is always a good idea to have a hobby which is completely dissociated from your work. One famous portrait artist I know has the hobby of breeding and training bird dogs. He shows them at trials and wins blue ribbons.

GARDEN PARTY TEA HOSTESSES

From the left: Mrs. Jan Simpson will act as buffet tea hostess and Miss Mary Campbell and Mrs. L. W. Johnson, as tea hostesses, at the annual garden party of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church this Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the seafront home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband, 3150 Rutland Road, the Uplands. The affair will be opened by Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, Mrs. S. W.

Draper is general convener and Mrs. A. Crofts, tea convener. There will be stalls of home cooking, aprons, knitted wear, candy, superfluities, fancywork, garden produce, hat notes, ice cream and a fish pond. Entertainment will include Mrs. Rita Norbury's "Water Ballet" and Mrs. E. Costain's dancers. There will be a 10-minute Uplands bus service between 2 and 5 p.m.

Scales Played At Recital

Feature of Miss D. Baillie's pupils' recital held recently was a scale competition. Teams were chosen by lot. The flat scales played by William Pick, Roger Kerr, Ruth Tabor and Howard Tweed were the winners.

Honor roll, with prize was also won by Ruth Tabor, and prizes were awarded to Beverley Bray, Jo Anne Glendenning, Billy Giddon, Elaine Hunt, William Pick and Sharon Spence.

Other pupils taking part in the program were Lesley Brander, Dianne Bray and Gregory McKinstry.

Cathedral Party

Annual garden party arranged by the Women's Parish Guild of Christ Church Cathedral will be held in The Deanery garden on Saturday.

Receiving guests will be Dean Brian Whitlow and Mrs. Whitlow. The affair will be opened at 2 p.m. by Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett.

General convener is Mrs. J. F. K. English, guild president, assisted by members of the guild of James Bay. Afternoon tea will be served from 3 to 5 p.m. in the gymnasium. There will be stalls of sewing, knitting, flowers, superfluities, home-cooking and produce.

In case of rain the party will be held in Memorial Hall. Small children will be cared for by Miss I. Anders in an outdoor nursery.

Jean McCreath Becomes Bride

In a wedding in Fairfield United Church recently, Miss Jean Thomson McCreath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCreath of Glasgow, Scotland, became the bride of Lawrence Franklin Morrical, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Morrical of Clive, Alta.

Rev. T. R. Haythorne conducted the ceremony in a setting of yellow and white daisies. Given in marriage by her uncle, Herbert Bowes, the attractive Scottish bride wore a gown of heavy satin topped with layers of tulle and lace. The bodice featured a sweetheart neckline. Her chapel-length veil was held in place by a coronet of rhinestones and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white heather.

Miss May Brooker was maid of honor in a delphinium blue chiffon gown. Her hat and mitts were in matching shade. Robert Jones was best man and Ronald McCreedy and Ian McGillivray ushered.

A three-tier cake centred the Scottish lace cloth covered bridal table for the reception. It was flanked by vases of roses and snapdragons. The bride and groom cut their wedding cake with a Scottish dirk.

Bert James proposed the toast.

Travelling up-island on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Morrical wore a pale green tailored suit and white accessories. The couple will make their home at 1246 Rudlin Street, Victoria.

Starts Thursday — 9 a.m.

LESSON
By Oswald Jacoby

to decide just how all suits to time the squeeze exactly possible to see that: the the squeeze must succeed long before the poor defenders recognize what is about to happen to

In the recent Missouri Valley Regional at Springfield, Mo., Alan
Bell, young Chicago expert, found himself in seven no-trump.

The bidding was both interesting and good and only a five-zero diamond split kept Alan from West opened the king of hearts. Alan took his ace and played the ace of diamonds. West showed out. Alan paused for a moment and spread his hand with the announced "Seven" on a rummy from East and West. Alan proceeded to run out all he could have to hold on to, all the way to the end, and hence would have to concede.

Alan would let go of his two aces, the king, queen and jack. The jack of hearts and three to hold the queen of hearts would stay as East was.

Alan would hold the king of spades; the queen and jack would be the winners.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some faint horizontal lines and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A vertical crease is visible near the right edge. The page is set against a dark background.

West Accuses Russia Of Blocking Summit

WASHINGTON (AP)—West-ern leaders accused Russia today of having disrupted diplomatic preparations for a summit conference.

President Eisenhower said this "cannot but cast doubt" on Soviet intentions toward a top-level meeting.

His accusation was in a letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev made public here. The communication paralleled similar messages from leaders of Britain and France.

The Western officials told Khrushchev:

1. They consider a summit meeting desirable if it would provide an opportunity for serious East-West discussion of major problems and for reaching important agreements.

2. Charges by Khrushchev that the Western powers are trying to prevent a summit meeting by proposing unacceptable issues are unwarranted. Khrushchev made such charges in letters June 11.

WON'T RELAX EFFORTS

Khrushchev's June 11 letter and an annex attached to it provided the basis for Eisenhower's charge that the Soviet government had broken up diplomatic negotiations on a summit conference. Prior to June 11 those preparations had been under way in Moscow for more than a month.

Eisenhower said the Soviet government is apparently unwilling "to negotiate seriously on concrete points, at issue" in preparation for a summit conference. He added, however, that in spite of this "the Western powers do not propose to abandon hope or to relax their efforts to seek solutions of the major outstanding problems."

"If the Soviet government is equally serious in pursuing this goal," Eisenhower said, "it will accept the procedural proposal put forward by the Western powers or advance some equally effective and workable alternative."

The procedural proposal was that in meetings between Western ambassadors and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko, both sides should have the right to bring up and discuss anything without either side having a veto.

"We tried all kinds of formulae in an attempt to get a settlement," said Mr. Greaves, "but although we sat with our pencils sharpened for hours upon hours we could not come to an agreement that would satisfy all parties."

Norman Cunningham, business agent for the SIU, explained the union's decision not to go along with the officers' voluntary arbitration agreement with the words, "Everybody doesn't have to follow the Pied Piper."

He added the SIU was "unalterably opposed" to any form of arbitration.

AID CUT

Congress Ignores Ike's Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives ignored a last-minute plea from President Eisenhower today and tentatively voted a $135,000,000 cut in defence support funds in the foreign aid program.

The test vote was on an amendment to restore $75,000,000 of the $135,000,000 cut made by the House appropriations committee.

The amendment was lost 120-97.

The vote came shortly after Eisenhower issued a statement criticizing the committee's overall cut of $872,000,000 from $3,950,092,500 he had requested for the program for the fiscal year that started Tuesday.

CLAIMS IT'S RISKY

Eisenhower told a press conference the cut amounted to taking reckless risks with the security of the U.S. It would encourage Communist imperialism.

Dance Revue Scores At Royal

Students of the Florence Clough Academy scored another triumph in the 31st of a series of annual dance revues at the Royal Theatre Monday night.

Outstanding among the eight major production numbers was "Coppelia"—the famous story of a mechanical doll. May Guthrie as Coppelia gave a first-class performance, combining realism with agility and grace.

She was also seen at her best in "Indian Fantasy" and "Autumn Leaves."

Jill Pinner made an excellent Swanilda and both the mechanical dolls, Lynda Chan and Valerie Parkin, performed with ease and grace. Ron Purcell as Coppellius and Ken Bull as Frantz made full use of their parts.

HIGH STANDARD

The revue was conspicuous for fine showmanship and the costuming reached a high standard. Other fine performances were given by Nadine Stewart, Vana Warholm, Ron Lawson, Ed Sunday, Anita Chipping, Donna Peck, Mard Campbell, Don Leckie and Bill McMillan, to mention just a few.

Guest artists and former pupils of the Florence Clough Academy were Frances Merriam and Lucy Tomczyk.

Atom Scientists 'Still Sparring'

GENEVA (Reuters)—East-West nuclear scientists met for two hours today and then adjourned until Friday their discussions on the detection of nuclear tests.

Asked whether an agenda had been discussed, Canadian delegate Dr. O. M. Solandt said: "Well, we have been getting down to it, but we are still sparring for position."

Worst Floods In 50 Years Sweep England

LONDON (Reuters)—Torrential rain today caused widespread flooding throughout England.

Thousands of homes were flooded, roads were awash and bus and train services dislocated. No fatalities were reported.

One of the hardest-hit towns was Sheffield, Yorkshire, where the River Sheaf rose eight feet above normal.

The whole of the town centre of Market Harborough, in Leicestershire, was under three feet of water and the River Weiland, on which the town stands, still was rising. The flooding was the worst in 50 years.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved, and while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

City Yachtsmen Fighting It Out

Victoria entries in the Pacific International Yachting Association regatta now under way at Vancouver were putting up a valiant fight against almost overwhelming opposition from Seattle, whose two clubs dominated almost every class.

But Jack Woodward's brand new Cub class entry Sugar from Royal Victoria Yacht Club was leading the class after two days racing, which started Monday.

The regatta continues to Friday. Sugar held a point edge over Corinthian yacht Club's Hokey and Victoria's Panic, skipped by Gordon Inglis.

Jon Baess was also racing well in his Dragon class Two class.

Bits II. He was class winner the opening long distance race Monday, from Portlier Pass to Vancouver, and after two days of racing stood second in his class.

RVYC Commodore R. H. Trythall, racing his converted six metre Erin, was leading in Z class in Tuesday's racing.

Sea Fever of Seattle Yacht Club led the U.S. invaders, winning Monday's long distance race for AA class and the AA class events run off Tuesday.

Another Seattle yacht, Heather, was double-winner in the BB

The general Tuesday surveyed the sensitive Tunisian frontier region, which long has been the principal trouble area in the 44-month Algerian nationalist rebellion. Most rebel supplies filter across the Tunisian border.

TRANS-CANADA SKYWAY

OPENED JULY 1st, 1958

The Equipment for this Microwave System was manufactured and installed by the Northern Electric Company Limited, for the Trans-Canada Telephone System, of which the British Columbia Telephone Company is a member.

*"And on, and on, without a pause,
untired they bounded still;
All night from tower to tower they sprang,
all night from hill to hill!"*

—Macaulay.

The Trans-Canada Skyway is a telephone and television microwave network which serves the principal population centres of the country. The microwave channels are carried by 139 radio-relay towers placed from 25 to 30 miles apart extending from coast-to-coast.

The network is designed to accommodate 12 one-way channels—each pair of which can provide up to 600 telephone channels, or 1 two-way television channel with 120 or more telephone channels.

The installation is unique in that it is, as far as is known, the world's longest microwave system—stretching across some 3,800 miles. The final section between Calgary and Vancouver was completed recently and permitted the coast-to-coast network to be officially opened July 1, 1958.

Northern Electric has been manufacturing, supplying and installing equipment for Canadian communications systems for over half a century. By keeping abreast of developments, in order to supply more and better equipment for Canada's communications systems, Northern Electric Serves You Best.

Northern Electric
SERVES YOU BEST

The complexity of this Trans-Canada Skyway, with its tremendous capacity for telephone conversations and television programmes, might well confound regulators of earthbound traffic. Through the miracle of microwaves the system will be as orderly as a military parade—but infinitely faster.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Christine L. Smith, aged 10, of Lynn, Mass., for her question:

What Is Hemp?

Hemp is a plant which grows long, strong fibers in its stem. These sturdy fibers are used to make rope, twine, canvas and rough cloth. Nowadays, the hemp plant grows in most warm and temperate lands. But its original home was Asia, north of the snowy Himalaya Mountains. There the Chinese were using it 5,000 years ago. Their written records about hemp fiber date back to 2800 B.C. This makes it one of the first fiber plants used by man.

The hemp plant is grown from little round seeds about the size of wheat grains. It takes about two years for the crop to be ready for harvest. And a field of hemp looks like a crop of two different plants. About half of them are heavy, with dark, leafy fronds. The others, though just as tall, are scrawny and bear pale, sick looking leaves.

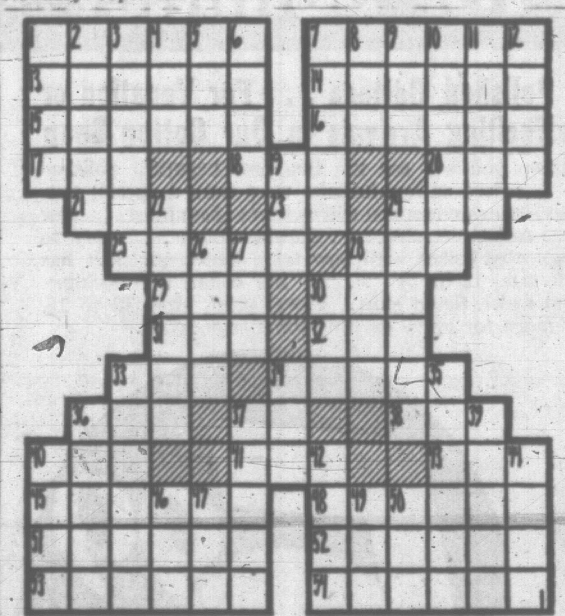

Actually, both plants are in splendid health. They happen to be of two different sorts, male and female. The scrawny fellows are the males. The male bears pollen, the female bears pistils and the egg cells.

When dry, the outer bark and inner wood pulp can be scraped from the sturdy hemp fibers. These fibers are peeled away in long pale ribbons called tuxies. The clinging wood pulp is scraped away and the fibers remain. The long fibers are called line hemp, the short stubby ends called tow hemp.

The hemp harvest also yields a plentiful supply of seeds. Some are saved for next year's crop and some are sold as bird seed. Much of the bird seed you buy at a pet shop is hemp seed. The seed also yields a rich oil suitable for use in making paints and varnishes.

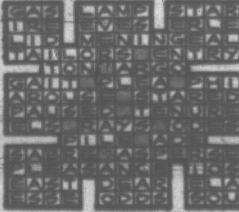

These are the good qualities of hemp. It is also the plant which gave us the terrible word assassin. This word comes from the Arabic word hashish and hashish is a drug which drives men to terrible deeds. In the east it is extracted from hemp and under its influence men have been known to commit violence and even murder.

The early settlers of New England grew hemp and used it to make cloth. The canvas sails and the ropes of old sailing ships were often made of hemp. Nowadays ropes and canvas are

110 Lives Lost
During Holiday

By The Canadian Press

Holiday mishaps claimed the lives of 110 Canadians during the Dominion Day Holiday weekend—the worst weekend toll in Canadian history.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Tuesday counted 52 dead in traffic and 50 drownings. Eight died in other accidents ranging from a plane crash in New Brunswick killing two to a British Columbia mountain fall.

The highway toll exceeded the Canadian Safety Council's estimate of 45 deaths. Last year, in a three-day holiday, 98 died, including 54 in traffic and 31 drownings.

TOPPED RECORD

This year's toll topped the previous Dominion Day record of 100, set in a similar four-day period in 1952 which had also been the highest of any holiday weekend.

In B.C. the death of a woman from Crescent Lake, 30 miles from Westport, Prince George, brought the holiday weekend death toll in the province to 12. Mrs. Gus Krausz died in hospital Monday from injuries she was believed to have suffered in a head-on collision on a road tributary to the Hart Highway early Sunday.

Mrs. Krausz was riding with her husband in a car which crashed head-on with a second vehicle driven by Walter Kindrachuk of Prince George.

In other holiday mishaps, Mrs. Vivian Mabel Wood, 54, of North Vancouver was killed when she slipped from a snow-covered trail on Sentinel Glacier, 50 miles north of Vancouver. Word of the accident did not reach Squamish police until Monday morning. Mrs. Wood had been hiking with a group from the Canadian Youth Hostel Association.

Hubert Berr of Vancouver was believed drowned in Chilliwack River after he disappeared while on a picnic with his family.

RCMP and troops from Chilliwack army camp are dragging the river.

IKE OUTLINES TOPICS
FOR TALKS WITH PM

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower, scheduled to make a three-day visit to Ottawa next week, said today his talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker will deal with such problems as water and oil resources, lead and zinc and the disposal of surplus wheat.

Eisenhower told a press conference relations between the U.S. and Canada should be "just as close as we can possibly make them."

Suspect Freed
As RCMP Hunt
B.C. Terrorists

KELOWNA (CP)—Floodlit buildings, guarded bridges and 24-hour roadblocks greeted holiday weekend visitors to British Columbia's Kootenay and Okanagan districts as police launched an all-out drive against terrorism in the southeast corner of the province.

Explosion Sunday of a bomb planted in a washroom of a Kelowna hotel and discovery of other bombs on an Okanagan Lake ferry and a power pole at Armstrong extended and intensified the RCMP operation.

A youth arrested during the weekend was later released when investigation showed he was not connected with the terrorist incidents.

With the visit of Princess Margaret to the Okanagan less than three weeks away, officers were posted at strategic points, roadblocks were set up and floodlights were erected at schools, dams, bridges and other public structures in the mountainous region.

Special watch was kept on the Okanagan Lake bridge which the Princess will declare open during her visit.

CARS SEARCHED
Police checked driver's licences and searched cars for dynamite at many points both in the Kootenays and in the Okanagan. They also patrolled railway tracks and power lines, both targets for frequent terrorist bomb outrages.

Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, long linked with arson and bombings, have welcomed the increased police action.

U.S. to Act in Lebanon
If Necessary — Twining

DETROIT (AP)—Gen. Nathan Twining said Tuesday night the United States is ready to send troops into Lebanon if the situation calls for it.

"I don't think there is any question about it," said Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. "We are prepared for any eventuality—all-out war or limited war—right now."

He told a press conference he did not think U.S. intervention in Lebanon would touch off a world war.

In Lebanon, President Camille Chamoun said Lebanese rebels under Syrian command may launch a strong attack on the northern port of Tripoli at any moment.

But if this attack and one from the area southeast of Beirut are "beaten completely, the armed rebellion will collapse as a military movement," the pro-Western president said.

Chamoun said that, before asking for a United Nations police force to seal the Lebanese-Syrian border, he would give the UN observers' group time to size up the aid his government claims the rebels are getting from the United Arab Republic.

He added that he will not ask Continued on Page 28

A NEWCOMER'S
LOOK AT VICTORIA

(Sometimes people of a city, living their daily routine, get complacent and quite satisfied with themselves and do not recognize their own peculiarities. It takes an outsider to see things in proper perspective. David Cowlishaw, a newspaperman from England who recently joined The Times staff, today continues a series on what he thinks is the life of his adopted town, albeit with a bit of his tongue in his cheek.)

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Among Eastern Canadians, Victoria has long been known as "The Cemetery Town" but it wasn't until I came to live here that I discovered why.

A short stroll in the area of Victoria's Piccadilly — Yates and Douglas — was enough.

Loitering and grumbling around that pulsating hub were scores of weary, parchment-wrinkled Rip Van Winkles who seemed to be either ready for the grave or fugitives from it.

Ottawa Proposes
Plan Leading
To Arbitration

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Starr announced today he will recommend to disputants in the west coast seamen's strike that they agree to resumption of steamship service with continued negotiations and possible eventual arbitration.

He told the Commons he has received such a suggestion from Eric Taylor of Toronto, the labor department's inquiry commissioner in the dispute that has tied up Canadian Pacific Steamship Company's coastal vessels.

Mr. Starr said that in the event of failure to reach agreement, Mr. Taylor suggested the dispute be referred to an arbitrator appointed by the labor minister with the dispute to be resolved by Aug. 15.

"I am conveying this to the parties concerned and urging them to give the proposals favorable consideration," Mr. Starr said.

REACH DEADLOCK

He said Mr. Taylor had advised him that, as of late Tuesday night, there was nothing more he could do to bring the disputants together.

The company's 10 ferries operating between Vancouver, Vancouver Island and British Columbia mainland ports have been tied up since May 16 by a walkout of 300 members of the Seafarers' International Union.

The union is asking a 16 per cent wage increase this year and another nine next year. The company has countered with an 8 per cent offer.

If the CPR and unions agree to the government's appeal the ferries could be back in operation within 24 hours.

Mr. Taylor told the government it should bring about a resumption of shipping service "in the interests of the community."

Five straight days of negotiations over the holiday weekend between Mr. Taylor, and the unions and CPR broke down Tuesday and resulted in his recommendations to Ottawa.

Mr. Taylor told The Times this morning: "We were on the threshold of agreement several times, but I regret that no single formula capable of acceptance by all three unions and the CPR was found."

TWO AGREED

The mediator said the Marine Engineers and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, both officers' unions, had agreed to voluntary arbitration before the talks broke down. In addition, they were reported willing to compromise on their demands for a 19-per-cent wage increase over two years.

"They accepted my proposals without qualification," Mr. Taylor told reporters, "and the Seafarers' International Union re-

BRIBE CASE

Sommers
Dismissal Sought

VANCOUVER (CP)—Defence lawyer Angelo Branca moved in assize court today for dismissal of all bribery-conspiracy charges against former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

Mr. Branca told Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson there was lack of evidence to support the crown's case of one charge of conspiracy and 24 of bribery.

There was lack of evidence that money was advanced to Sommers in return for his ministerial influence in obtaining government timber licences.

Mr. Branca followed defence lawyer Douglas McK. Brown who argued for dismissal of all but the conspiracy count and one of bribery against his client, B.C. Forest Products Limited.

Mr. Brown said his client had been "prejudiced beyond remedy" by the action of the crown in "spraying the accused with charges." First the crown had levelled six charges, then had increased the number to 28 and now they were back to 25.

WILL EXCUSE JURY

Alfred Bull was to follow Mr. Branca, moving for dismissal of charges against Charles D. Schultz and the C. D. Schultz Company. After he indicated he would take considerable time, Mr. Justice Wilson said that when the jury returns Thursday he will excuse them until Monday.

The jury of nine men and three women have been excused since the crown closed its case last week and the defence began arguing for quashing—an argument rejected by the judge—and for dismissal.

However, the jury members by a ruling of the judge can attend and listen to the legal argument if they wish.

Mr. Brown, arguing for dismissal of charges against B.C. Forest, said it was not a matter of reasonable doubt. "What I am concerned about is the total lack of evidence."

Bennett 'Ready'
For IWA Talks

Premier Bennett said today he is personally available to assist with mediation to avert a lumber strike in B.C.

Commenting on statements of Joe Morris, district president of the International Woodworkers of America, the premier said, "The government will always help. I am always available and ready to help in every way."

The IWA official told The Times today he had received no reply from the provincial government to the union's request for help in settling the dispute with B.C. lumber companies.

"We are still waiting," he said. Mr. Morris, who is also chairman of the IWA district negotiating committee, said Monday the union is willing to have another look at its demands if necessary to settle the strike, and that there will be no immediate walkout.

Reporting on a government-sponsored strike vote among coast members, Mr. Morris said strike action was favored by a "majority approximating 70 per cent" of the 17,000 members who voted.

A previous strike vote conducted by the union showed 87 per cent in favor of strike action.

know. The elders of B.C.'s capital have frowns on their centennial faces that do almost as much as a ferry strike to keep the tourists away.

There they sit on that sagging wooden bench at the bus stop, muttering to themselves about "rhododendrons," "balloons" and something about a ferry strike. I believe it is, leaning suspiciously at passers-by and scowling at any one with the temerity to look pleasant. Veritable dinosaurs.

But these vultures I found to have a fighting quality that you must admire. Speak to them and with little prompting they will lambaste the situation in Lebanon and a mysterious "them" with enough energy to power a small turbine. No empty heads here!

These ancient creatures know more about what's going on in the world and about what SHOULD be going on in the world than many of the city's elected upstarts apparently give them credit for.

OUCH!

But their anger on occasion—ouch! One lady of teasing vintage I bumped into was a real Dresden Doll, with the shawl and dainty walk you associate with a member of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of Empire. I met her in the Post Office. In fact, I laughed at her.

A grave mistake. It wasn't her fault the shopping bag overturned and spilled apples over the General Delivery counter. But laugh I did, quickly to find myself on the business end of a tongue-lashing that had me prickling from head to toe and the staid counter-clerk wide-eyed and goggling with horror. I still dream about it.

THEY RAKE, TOO

But if Victoria old people like to rant, they also like to rake. Yes, their precious ridiculous gardens. Those absurd fossils plough and sow, reap and hoard and stash away for the winter with a frowning dedication that is nothing short of remarkable. And pathetic. The visiting onlooker is amused for a while, then puzzled.

What's back of it all, he wonders? Why do these barnacled mariners on the sea of life choose to fritter away the few years they have left on the alga fantastica and the flora stupidiocosa?

It takes a couple of weeks to trowel up the answer, but I'll be talking about that in a later piece. Right now I'd like to say how sorry I am that this city's real gold, its senior citizens, should be content to be put out to pasture by their headstrong issue when they carry in their heads a wealth of knowledge crystallized from long painful years of (presumably) upright living.

It's tragic, somehow, that so much hard-won common sense should be lavished on a bunch of old geraniums.

As it is, it looks to me as though the reins of Victoria's destiny are in the uncalledous hands of shiny-faced popin-jays with heads full of ideas and—well, just ideas. We'll look closer Friday. Thursday we'll go shopping.

Half-Million Dollar Fire Destroys Vancouver Plant

(From Times News Services)
VANCOUVER—A $500,000 industrial fire destroyed the offices and warehouses of the E. L. Sauder Lumber Company Limited Tuesday night.

H. A. Sauder, secretary-treasurer of the company, estimated the loss of lumber and other contents at $400,000 and the three-storey building at $100,000.

Considerable other damage was caused as sparks showered an extensive area.

More than 150 firemen fought the blaze which for a time threatened to spread through the multi-million-dollar industrial area in False Creek Flats.

Two firemen suffered slight injuries. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Nearly 5,000 spectators saw sparks leap hundreds of feet into the air. Vast traffic tieups developed as motorists stopped to watch the blaze, which was visible for miles around.

Firemen had to extinguish sparks over a 10-block area. Tons of water were hosed onto

RAIN HALTS FIRE THREAT

PRINCE GEORGE—A heavy weekend rainfall in the Prince George forest district has washed away the troubles which plagued forest service officials and farmers in northern British Columbia for eight weeks.

GAGLIARDI HEADS PARADE

KAMLOOPS—A crowd estimated at 20,000 witnessed Kamloops' colorful Dominion Day parade Tuesday.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi headed the parade as honorary parade marshal.

2 REFUSED AID, FINED

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C.—Two men were fined a total of $75 and costs Monday at lower court for failing to render assistance in controlling a forest fire. Guy Reid admitted the charge and was fined $25 while Douglas Reid was fined $50 on conviction of a similar count.

"Two summers ago, during a fishing trip, a sudden squall swamped our boat. I was knocked unconscious, but my companion was able to keep me afloat until help came.

"This narrow escape drove home to me the value of my $10,000 Confederation Life policy. For $1.75 a month, I had added an Accidental Death and Dismemberment Clause. Had I not been saved, Confederation would have paid my wife twice the face value of the policy—$20,000 instead of $10,000.

West Accuses Russia Of Blocking Summit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Western leaders accused Russia today of having disrupted diplomatic preparations for a summit conference.

President Eisenhower said this "cannot but cast doubt" on Soviet intentions toward a top-level meeting.

His accusation was in a letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev made public here. The communication paralleled similar messages from leaders of Britain and France.

The Western officials told Khrushchev:

1. They consider a summit meeting desirable if it would provide an opportunity for serious East-West discussion of major problems and for reaching important agreements.

2. Charges by Khrushchev that the Western powers are trying to prevent a summit meeting by proposing unacceptable issues, are unwarranted. Khrushchev made such charges in letters June 11.

WON'T RELAX EFFORTS

Khrushchev's June 11 letter and an annex attached to it provided the basis for Eisenhower's charge that the Soviet government had broken up diplomatic negotiations on a summit conference. Prior to June 11 those preparations had been under way in Moscow for more than a month.

Eisenhower said the Soviet government is apparently unwilling "to negotiate seriously on concrete points at issue" in preparation for a summit conference. He added, however, that in spite of this "the Western powers do not propose to abandon hope or to relax their efforts to seek solutions of the major outstanding problems."

"If the Soviet government is equally serious in pursuing this goal," Eisenhower said, "it will accept the procedural proposal put forward by the Western powers or advance some equally effective and workable alternative."

The procedural proposal was that in meetings between Western ambassadors and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko, both sides should have the right to bring up and discuss anything without either side having a veto.

PM, Wife Escape Injury

SASKATOON (CP)—As an RCAF band broke into O Canada, four skittish Clydesdales plunged ahead and narrowly missed injuring Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker at a ceremony here Tuesday.

The open door of a landau, from which the couple had just lighted, caught Mrs. Diefenbaker and threw her against her husband. Both were swept forward several feet before the driver reined in the frightened horses.

The Diefenbakers merely brushed themselves off and stood erect while the band from RCAF station Saskatoon finished playing O Canada.

The occasion was the opening at the Western Development Museum Grounds of Pion-Era, a five-day show which re-enacts the pioneer days of the province. Only a few persons in the crowd of 8,000 noticed the incident.

The prime minister, who left later by plane for Ottawa, spoke a few minutes later but did not mention it.

The incident occurred while the prime minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker were on the track which separates the grandstand and the platform.

They had left the museum in an ancient landau drawn by a four-horse team. The landau stopped in front of the grandstand and the Diefenbakers got down.

Then the air force band began to play O Canada. The four horses, apparently startled by the sudden outburst of music, reared and then plunged forward.

Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker returned to Ottawa by air from Saskatoon early today.

Worst Floods In 50 Years Sweep England

LONDON (Reuters)—Torrential rain today caused widespread flooding throughout England.

Thousands of homes were flooded, roads were awash and bus and train services dislocated. No fatalities were reported.

One of the hardest-hit towns was Sheffield, Yorkshire, where the River Sheaf rose eight feet above normal.

The whole of the town centre of Market Harborough, in Leicestershire, was under three feet of water and the River Weald, on which the town stands, still was rising. The flooding was the worst in 50 years.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own homes without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough

Vancouver were putting up a valiant fight against almost overwhelming opposition from Seattle, whose two clubs dominated almost every class.

But Jack Woodward's brand new Cub class entry Sugar from Royal Victoria Yacht Club was leading the class after two days racing, which started Monday. The regatta continues to Friday.

Sugar held a point edge over Corinthian yacht club's Honey and Victoria's Panic, skipped by Gordon Inglis.

Jon Baess was also racing well in his Dragon class Two class.

TRANS-CANADA SKYWAY

OPENED JULY 1st, 1958

The Equipment for this Microwave System was manufactured and installed by the Northern Electric Company Limited, for the Trans-Canada Telephone System, of which the British Columbia Telephone Company is a member.

"And on, and on, without a pause,
untired they bounded still;
All night from tower to tower they sprang,

—Macaulay.

The Trans-Canada Skyway is a telephone and television microwave network which serves the principal population centres of the country. The microwave channels are carried by 139 radio-relay towers placed from 25 to 30 miles apart extending from coast-to-coast.

The network is designed to accommodate 12 one-way channels—each pair of which can provide up to 600 telephone channels, or 1 two-way television channel with 120 or more telephone channels.

The installation is unique in that it is, as far as is known, the world's longest microwave system—stretching across some 3,800 miles. The final section between Calgary and Vancouver was completed recently and permitted the coast-to-coast network to be officially opened July 1, 1958.

Northern Electric has been manufacturing, supplying and installing equipment for Canadian communications systems for over half a century. By keeping abreast of developments, in order to supply more and better equipment for Canada's communications systems, Northern Electric Serves You Best.

Northern Electric

— SERVES YOU BEST —

The complexity of this Trans-Canada Skyway, with its tremendous capacity for telephone conversations and television programmes, might well confound regulators of earthbound traffic. Through the miracle of microwaves the system will be as orderly as a military parade—but infinitely faster.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question appearing each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Christine L. Smith, aged 10, of Lynn, Mass., for her question:

What Is Hemp?

Hemp is a plant which grows long, strong fibers in its stem. These sturdy fibers are used to make rope, twine, canvas and rough cloth. Nowadays, the hemp plant grows in most warm and temperate lands. But its original home was Asia, north of the snowy Himalaya Mountains. There the Chinese were using it 5,000 years ago. Their written records about hemp fiber date back to 2800 B.C. This makes it one of the first fiber plants used by man.

The hemp plant is grown from little round seeds about the size of wheat grains. It takes about two years for the crop to be ready for harvest. And a field of hemp looks like a crop of two different plants. About half of them are heavy, with dark, leafy fronds. The others, though just as tall, are scrawny and bear pale, sick-looking leaves.

Actually, both plants are in splendid health. They happen to be of two different sorts, male and female. The scrawny fellows are the males. The male bears pollen, the female bears pistils and the egg cells.

When dry, the outer bark and inner wood pulp can be scraped from the sturdy hemp fibers. These fibers are peeled away in long pale ribbons called tuxies. The clinging wood pulp is scraped away and the fibers remain. The long fibers are called line hemp, the short stubby ends called tow hemp.

IKE OUTLINES TOPICS FOR TALKS WITH PM

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower, scheduled to make a three-day visit to Ottawa next week, said today his talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker will deal with such problems as water and oil resources, lead and zinc and the disposal of surplus wheat.

Eisenhower told a press conference relations between the U.S. and Canada should be "just as close as we can possibly make them."

'NAUSEOUS CONDUCT' IN HEIKKILA CASE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Judge Edward P. Murphy refused Tuesday to hold district immigration director Bruce Barber in contempt of court for deporting William Heikkila but he did accuse the immigration service officer of "nauseous" conduct.

Heikkila, 52, was seized on a San Francisco street April 18 by Barber's agents and deported to Finland although there were still proceedings in court dealing with his appeal from deportation as an alien ex-Communist.

A few hours after the draftsman was taken to Vancouver, B.C., without notification of his wife or attorney, his lawyer secured a restraining order.

110 Lives Lost During Holiday

By The Canadian Press

Holiday mishaps claimed the lives of 110 Canadians during the Dominion Day holiday weekend—the worst weekend toll in Canadian history.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Tuesday counted 52 dead in traffic and 50 drownings. Eight died in other accidents ranging from a plane crash in New Brunswick killing two to a British Columbia mountain fall.

The highway toll exceeded the Canadian Safety Council's estimate of 45 deaths. Last year, in a three-day holiday, 98 died, including 54 in traffic and 31 drownings.

TOPPED RECORD

This year's toll topped the previous Dominion Day record of 100, set in a similar four-day period in 1952 which had also been the highest of any holiday weekend.

In B.C., the death of a woman from Crescent Lake, 30 miles northwest of Prince George, brought the holiday weekend death toll in the province to 12.

Mrs. Gus Krausz died in hospital Monday from injuries she was believed to have suffered in a head-on collision on a road tributary to the Hart Highway early Sunday.

Mrs. Krausz was riding with her husband in a car which crashed head-on with a second vehicle driven by Walter Kindrachuk of Prince George.

In other holiday mishaps, Mrs. Vivian Mabel Wood, 54, of North Vancouver was killed when she slipped from a snow-covered trail on Sentinel Glacier, 50 miles north of Vancouver. Word of the accident did not reach Squamish police until Monday morning. Mrs. Wood had been hiking with a group from the Canadian Youth Hostel Association.

Hubert Berr of Vancouver was believed drowned in Chilliwack River after he disappeared while on a picnic with his family.

RCMP and troops from Chilliwack army camp are dragging the river.

Suspect Freed As RCMP Hunt B.C. Terrorists

KELOWNA (CP)—Floodlit buildings, guarded bridges and 24-hour roadblocks greeted British Columbia's Kootenay and Okanagan districts as police launched an all-out drive against terrorism in the southeast corner of the province.

Explosion Sunday of a bomb planted in a washroom of a Kelowna hotel and discovery of other bombs on an Okanagan Lake ferry and a power pole at Armstrong extended and intensified the RCMP operation.

A youth arrested during the weekend was later released when investigation showed he was not connected with the terrorist incidents.

With the visit of Princess Margaret to the Okanagan less than three weeks away, officers were posted at strategic points, roadblocks were set up and floodlights were erected at schools, dams, bridges and other public structures in the mountainous region.

Special watch was kept on the Okanagan Lake bridge which the Princess will declare open during her visit.

CARS SEARCHED

Police checked driver's licenses and searched cars for dynamite at many points both in the Kootenays and in the Okanagan. They also patrolled railway tracks and power lines, both targets for frequent terrorist bomb outrages.

Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, long linked with arson and bombings, have welcomed the increased police action.

Ottawa Proposes Plan Leading To Arbitration

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Starr announced today he will recommend to disputants in the west coast seamen's strike that they agree to resumption of steamship service with continued negotiations and possible eventual arbitration.

He told the Commons he has received such a suggestion from Eric Taylor of Toronto, the labor department's inquiry commissioner in the dispute that has tied up Canadian Pacific Steamship Company's coastal vessels.

Mr. Starr said that in the event of failure to reach agreement, Mr. Taylor suggested the dispute be referred to an arbitrator appointed by the labor minister with the dispute to be resolved by Aug. 15.

"I am conveying this to the parties concerned and urging them to give the proposals favorable consideration," Mr. Starr said.

He said Mr. Taylor had advised him that, as of late Tuesday night, there was nothing more he could do to bring the disputants together.

The company's 10 ferries operating between Vancouver, Vancouver Island and British Columbia mainland ports have been tied up since May 16 by a walkout of 300 members of the Seafarers' International Union.

The union is asking a 16 per cent wage increase this year and another nine next year. The company has countered with an 8 per cent offer.

Ferries Could Run in 24 Hours

If the CPR and unions agree to the government's appeal the ferries could be back in operation within 24 hours.

Mr. Taylor told the government it should bring about resumption of shipping service "in the interests of the community."

Five straight days of negotiations over the holiday weekend between Mr. Taylor, and the unions and CPR broke down Tuesday and resulted in his recommendations to Ottawa.

Mr. Taylor told The Times this morning: "We were on the threshold of agreement several times, but I regret that no single formula capable of acceptance by all three unions and the CPR was found."

Officers Agree to Arbitration

The mediator said the Marine Engineers and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, both officers' unions, had agreed to voluntary arbitration before the talks broke down. In addition, they were reported willing to compromise on their demands for a 19-per cent wage increase over two years.

"They accepted my proposals without qualification," Mr. Taylor told reporters, "and the Seafarers' International Union rejected them without qualification."

The CPR's position had been that there was no point in settling with two unions if the third would not go along.

The company would agree to voluntary arbitration only if it were conducted by a Supreme Court judge, said the mediator.

The Marine Engineers' president, Richard Graves, told The Times this morning Mr. Taylor tried three times to get CPR to accept arbitration by a federal arbitrator, not by a Supreme Court judge.

Bennett 'Ready' For IWA Talks

Premier Bennett said today he is personally available to assist with mediation to avert a lumber strike in B.C.

Commenting on statements of Joe Morris, district president of the International Woodworkers of America, the premier said, "The government will always help. I am always available and ready to help in every way."

The IWA official told The Times today he had received no reply from the provincial government to the union's request for help in settling the dispute with B.C. lumber companies.

"We are still waiting," he said.

Mr. Morris, who is also chairman of the IWA district negotiating committee, said Monday the union is willing to have an other look at its demands if necessary to settle the strike, and that there will be no immediate walkout.

Reporting on a government-sponsored strike vote among coast members, Mr. Morris said strike action was favored by a "majority approximating 70 per cent" of the 17,000 members who voted.

A previous strike vote conducted by the union showed 87 per cent in favor of strike action.

Thomson Leads Golf

ST. ANNES-ON-SEA, England (AP)—Peter Thomson of Australia took the first round lead in the British Open golf championship today with a dazzling five-under-par round of 32-34-66.

DETROIT (AP)—Gen. Nathan Twining said Tuesday night the United States is ready to send troops into Lebanon if the situation calls for it.

"I don't think there is any question about it," said Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. "We are prepared for any eventuality—all out war or limited war—right now."

He told a press conference he did not think U.S. intervention in Lebanon would touch off a world war.

In Lebanon, President Camille Chamoun said Lebanese rebels under Syrian command may launch a strong attack on the northern port of Tripoli at any moment.

But if this attack and one from the area southeast of Beirut are "beaten completely, the armed rebellion will collapse as a military movement," the pro-Western president said.

Chamoun said that, before asking for a United Nations police force to seal the Lebanon-Syrian border, he would give the UN observers' group time to size up the aid his government claims the rebels are getting from the United Arab Republic.

He added that he will not ask for U.S. or British intervention so long as Lebanese forces are able to fight successfully.

Rebels and government forces took time out today in the fighting in Tripoli to draw up a code of conduct for warfare.

The army was reported to have agreed to cease using artillery so long as the rebels stopped their attacks with mortars and grenades.

Goldfine Listed Adams' Bills As Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP)—A lawyer for Bernard Goldfine said today Goldfine charged off as a business expense hotel bills paid for Sherman Adams and the cost of an expensive Oriental rug that Adams has testified was a loan.

Attorney Roger Robb gave this account after a House of Representatives hearing at which Goldfine read a statement denying there was anything out of line in his relationship with Adams, No. 1 aide to President Eisenhower.

Goldfine branded as lies charges that he got favored treatment through Adams, a longtime friend.

BRIBE CASE

Sommers Dismissal Sought

VANCOUVER (CP)—Defense lawyer Angelo Branca moved in assize court today for dismissal of all bribery-conspiracy charges against former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

Mr. Branca told Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson there was lack of evidence to support the crown's case of one charge of conspiracy and 24 of bribery.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A defense lawyer declared today that there is no evidence against his client—the big B.C. Forest Products Limited timber concern—in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial.

Douglas McK. Brown was arguing for dismissal of conspiracy and bribery charges against the firm.

He said it was not a matter of reasonable doubt—"what I am concerned about is the total lack of evidence."

He said none of the testimony of the crown's chief witness, accountant Charles Eversfield, was applicable to B.C. Forest Products. And there was no evidence that any monies coming from his client was used to pay off former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

PM, Wife Escape Injury As Team of Horses Bolts

SASKATOON (CP)—As an RCAF band broke into O Canada, four skittish Clydesdales plunged ahead and narrowly missed injuring Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker at a ceremony here Tuesday.

The open door of a landau, from which the couple had just lighted, caught Mrs. Diefenbaker and threw her against her husband. Both were swept forward several feet before the driver reined in the frightened horses.

The Diefenbakers merely brushed themselves off and stood erect while the band from RCAF station Saskatchewan finished playing O Canada.

The occasion was the opening at the Western Development Museum Grounds of Pion-Era, a five-day show which re-enacts the pioneer days of the province. Only a few persons in the crowd of 8,000 noticed the incident.

The prime minister, who left later by plane for Ottawa, spoke a few minutes later but did not mention it.

The incident occurred while the prime minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker were on the track which separates the grandstand and the platform.

They had left the museum in an ancient landau drawn by a four-horse team. The landau stopped in front of the grandstand and the Diefenbakers got down.

Then the air force band began to play O Canada. The four horses, apparently startled by the sudden outburst of music, reared and then plunged forward.

Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker returned to Ottawa by air from Saskatoon early today.

A spokesman said neither Mr. or Mrs. Diefenbaker suffered any injury in the Saskatoon incident.

A NEWCOMER'S LOOK AT VICTORIA

Sometimes people of a city, living their daily routine, get complacent and do not recognize their own peculiarities. It takes an outsider to see things in proper perspective. David Cowlishaw, a newspaperman from England who recently joined The Times staff, today continues a series on what he thinks NOW of his adopted town, albeit with a bit of his tongue in his cheek.

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Among Eastern Canadians, Victoria has long been known as "The Cemetery Town" but it wasn't until I came to live here that I discovered why. A short stroll in the area of Victoria's Piccadilly—Yates and Douglas—was enough. Loitering and grumbling around that pulsating hub were scores of weary, parchment-wrinkled Rip Van Winkles who seemed to be either ready for the grave or fugitives from it.

There are young people in Victoria, of course—who else would drive those $7,000 purple hot-rods?—but we'll wait until Thursday to talk about them. Today let's look at Victoria's oldsters.

WHY SO GLOOMY?

Quite frankly, I like them. As we have already found, they ARE Victoria. What life they have left in them is the city's forte, its spirit, the essence that distinguishes the place from, say Edmonton. What the visitor to Victoria wants to know is: why are they so gloomy?

And they ARE gloomy, you know. The elders of B.C.'s capital have frowns on their centennial faces that do almost as much as a ferry strike to keep the tourists away.

There they sit on that sagging wooden bench at the bus stop, muttering to themselves about "rhododendrons," "balloons" and something about a ferry strike. I believe it is, leering suspiciously at passers-by and scowling at anyone with the temerity to look pleasant. Veritable dinosaurs.

But these vultures I found to have a fighting quality that you must admire. Speak to them and with little prompting they will lambaste the situation in Lebanon and a mysterious "them" with enough energy to power a small turbine. No empty heads here!

These ancient creatures know more about what's going on in the world and about what SHOULD be going on in the world than many of the city's elected upstarts apparently give them credit for.

OUCH!
But their anger on occasion—ouch! One lady of teasing vintage I bumped into was a real Dresden Doll, with the shawl and dainty walk you associate with a member of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of Empire. I met her in the Post Office. In fact, I laughed at her.

A grave mistake. It wasn't her fault the shopping bag overturned and spilled apples over the General Delivery counter. But laugh I did, quickly to find myself on the business end of a tongue-lashing that had me pricking from head to toe and the staid counter-clerks wide-eyed and goggling with horror. I still dream about it.

THEY RAKE, TOO

But if Victoria old people like to rant, they also like to rake. Yes, their precious ridiculous gardens. Those absurd fossils plough and sow, reap and hoard and stash away for the winter with a frowning dedication that is nothing short of remarkable. And pathetic. The visiting onlooker is amused for a while, then puzzled.

What's back of it all, he wonders? Why do these barnacled mariners on the sea of life choose to fritter away the few years they have left on the alga fantastica and the flora stupidiocosa?

It takes a couple of weeks to trawl up the answer, but I'll be talking about that in a later piece. Right now I'd like to say how sorry I am that this city's real gold, its senior citizens, should be content to be put out to pasture by their headstrong issue when they carry in their heads a wealth of knowledge crystallized from long painful years of (presumably) upright living.

It's tragic, somehow, that so much hard-won common sense should be lavished on a bunch of old geraniums. As it is, it looks to me as though the reins of Victoria's destiny are in the uncalledous hands of shiny-faced popin-jays with heads full of ideas and—well, just ideas. We'll look closer Friday, Thursday we'll go shopping.

Half-Million Dollar Fire Destroys Vancouver Plant

(From Times News Service)
VANCOUVER—A $500,000 industrial fire destroyed the offices and warehouses of the E. L. Sauder Lumber Company Limited Tuesday night.

H. A. Sauder, secretary-treasurer of the company, estimated the loss of lumber and other contents at $400,000 and the three-storey building at $100,000.

Considerable other damage was caused as sparks showered an extensive area.

More than 150 firemen fought the blaze which for a time threatened to spread through the multi-million-dollar industrial area in False Creek Flats.

Two firemen suffered slight injuries. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Nearly 5,000 spectators saw sparks leap hundreds of feet into the air. Vast traffic tieups developed as motorists stopped to watch the blaze, which was visible for miles around.

Firemen had to extinguish sparks over a 10-block area. Tens of water were hosed onto commercial buildings nearby. At one point firemen had to play hoses on their own trucks which were showered with sparks.

"Two summers ago, during a fishing trip, a sudden squall swamped our boat. I was knocked unconscious, but my companion was able to keep me afloat until help came.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Further aggressive shipping demand for oats and barley appeared today on the Winnipeg livestock market with buying by various interests prompted by deterioration of crops, especially in southern Saskatchewan.

Very useful moisture appeared in Manitoba and parts of Saskatchewan but areas needing rain most did not get any. Oats and barley prices reached new seasonal highs.

There was small export interest in barley for the United Kingdom.

Lakehead prices for class two, TWA and domestic wheat were down one-eighth cent from Monday.

Sidney Day Exciting Success

OLD-TIMER Bill Roberts, representing all Sidney and North Saanich pioneers, gets gift from SANSCHA president's wife, Mrs. Fred Gilbert, dressed in costume to match the occasion. Theme of the celebration which started Saturday was 100 years of progress. (Jorgen Svendsen Photos.)

MONTE ROBERTS

So this man ups to me, and he says, I hear you're a Winnipegian.
So I ups to this man and I says, no, I ain't no Winnipegian.
So this man ups to me, and he says, but I was just told you came from Winnipeg.
And I says to this man, I lived in Winnipeg once, but that doesn't make me a Winnipegian.
So what does it make you, this man says to me.
It makes me a former resident of Winnipeg, I says to this man.
So this man ups to me again, and he says, ahah, I told you so, you are a Winnipegian, or at the very least, an EX-Winnipegian.
No I am not, I says to this man. I am an ex-Winnipegger, I says.
So this man looks at me suspiciously, and he asks me, did you ever live in Toronto.
So I admits to this man, yes, I once lived in Toronto (you should call this living?).
So this man says, when you lived in Toronto, what were you?
And I tell this man, when I lived in Toronto, I was a Torontonian.
So this man ups to me again, and he says, I've got you now, In Toronto, you were a Torontonian. In Winnipeg, you were a Winnipegian.
I live in Victoria now, I says to this man, in fact I was born here, what does that make me? I says to this man.
A Victorian, this man says to me, I know me English accent, he says to me.
So I looks this man straight-in the eye, and this man looks me back straight-in the eye, and then I ups to this man and I says, I also used to live in Chilliwack, I says. And what does THAT make me?
Chilliwacky, this man says to me.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Top government and civic officials will be on hand for July 8 ceremonial opening of the reconstructed Malahat section of the Trans-Canada Highway.
The ceremony is set just a few days before Princess Margaret will travel the route between Victoria and Duncan.
Ceremonies set for 6 p.m. at Malahat Chalet, 15 miles from Victoria, will be attended by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi and other members of the B.C. cabinet.

John Guzzwell, yachtsman from Victoria who was reported June 14 as missing off the east coast of Australia, today wired that he is alive and well.
"Everything okay, publicity lousy," he stated in a telegram to a Victoria friend. It had been sent from Brisbane.
Mr. Guzzwell, an English-born cabinet maker, built his 18-foot yawl-Trekka in Victoria, then left in April, 1956, for the South Pacific. He was reported missing on a cruise from Coff's Harbor to Brisbane.

"Welcome Ashore" hospital-ity post for sailors visiting here during fleet week, July 9 to 16, opened in the armed services centre today.
A special telephone number—5-9721—will be manned by IODE volunteers from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, to accept offers of hospitality for British, U.S. and Canadian sailors taking part in the big navy show which culminates in the review by Princess Margaret July 15.
More than 4,000 visiting sailors will be in port.

Total value of new construction in Esquimalt to the end of June this year is greater than the total for all of 1957.
Building officials today said 141 permits with a total value of $961,001 have been issued in the first six months of 1958. Throughout 1957 the total was $880,208.
Last month Esquimalt issued permits for 11 dwellings worth $139,600 and nine miscellaneous buildings valued at $27,673. Last year in June there were seven dwellings and 10 miscellaneous buildings started, with a value of $105,500.

Despite the CPE shipping strike, the number of visitors registered at the Legislative Buildings here has increased 30 per cent over the same period in 1957.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett noted today, there were 985 signatures in the visitors' book during June last year and 1,293 this June.
"It is estimated that only one in four sign the book," the premier added.

City police ambulance took 85-year-old Miss Henna Thompson, 1476 Gladstone to St. Joseph's Hospital suffering shock, back and scalp injuries after she fell down three basement stairs Tuesday at 2:40 p.m.

A group of 15 or 20 young men intentionally damaged new pedal-driven boats which were to be rented at Thetis Lake, concession operator Otto Althaus told city council by letter Monday. As a result, Mr. Althaus said it would be necessary to cancel plans for the boat rental business at Thetis. He asked if he could conduct it instead at Beaver Lake.

Five Doukhobors including three women entered not guilty pleas in city police court today on a joint charge of assault causing bodily harm to provincial welfare chief Miss Ruby McKay last Friday.

All were remanded for trial to July 7 and their bail remains unchanged at $500 each.
The accused are Tiny Esvo-loff, Mrs. Ann Barisoff, Nastia Barisoff, William Podovennikoff and Tim Jansaff.

They appeared as a delegation in Miss McKay's office at the Legislature, after which meeting the assault is alleged to have taken place. Miss McKay received face and body scratches and was in mild shock but was not taken to hospital.

A small boy in tattered clothing, clutching a frayed straw hat in one hand grinned through the dirt on his face and held up a shiny centennial silver dollar in the other.
"See? A silver dollar," he crowed to his friends, who demanded: "Where'dja get it?"
"I won it in the parade."
For the moment nine-year-old Bruce McNeill was the happiest boy at Sandown Park on sunny Dominion Day where a record throng showed up for Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association's annual Sidney Day.
But young Bruce, the best "Bum" in the parade with the costume he made himself, had to share his elation with hundreds of other kids in a day full of fun and adventure for the young and young at heart.
There was something for everyone—the parade with its pretty girls, horses, pageantry, fire engines, floats and clowns; the crowning of Queen SANSCHA, 18, of Cordova Bay; sports car and motorcycle competition; hot dogs, soda pop, carnival games, rides, exhibitions, exotic dancers, Japanese wrestling, Scottish pipers, drill teams.
Last program of a jam-packed Sidney Day was a mardi gras ball at SANSCHA's brand new hall where Lloyd Ducharme, of Sidney, was named the enviable winner of a two-week, all-expense trip to Hawaii.

Big Crowds at All Shows

Officials estimated 2,500 people had entered Sandown Park by late afternoon to see the fun, and there were still two hours of entertainment ahead. During the previous two nights of the four-day centennial celebration an estimated 1,000 people a night were admitted to the Community Hall.
For grandstand spectators Tuesday, stage numbers and track and field events kept necks swivelling to keep up with the fast-paced show.
Most thrilling were the mounted games by members of Colwood Trail Riders and racing by Victoria Motorcycle Club.
But one of the biggest gasps from the stands came when can-can dancer Donna Peck made a spectacular one-point landing in the middle of a particularly high kick. She got up and carried on with partner Jill Pinniger.
The day got underway with the parade from downtown Sidney at 10 a.m., and like the Pied Piper it led a jostling public to Sandown.
Its theme was 100 years of progress in the Sidney and North Saanich areas, with floats contrived to depict the milestones; like a model rum runner's vessel which would tie up brazenly to conduct its illicit business at Sidney's public dock in a romantic era long gone.
Another float represented the first school house, which in those days served also as meeting place and community hall.

Relics of Industrial Era

Other vehicles carried working steam whistles from the lumber camps and cannery which founded the peninsula's economy, sole vestige of an industrial era.
Their plantive toots must have been nostalgic to some of the special group of old-timers invited to take part in the celebration.
Patriarch Bill Roberts, 82, representative of senior citizens, accepted a gift from Mrs. Fred Gilbert, wife of SANSCHA president.
Flushed with her honor, Queen Beverley sat in her dazling white gown cradling crimson gladiolus blooms while pert Barbara Whipple, queen of 1957, placed on her head the tiara of office as princesses Cathy Slater and Judy Grimshaw looked on.
Then events began in quick succession on stage, on the track, in front of the stands and in the infield. Smart-stepping Sidney Girls' Drill Team drilled out the letters S-I-D-N-E-Y to a staccato drum beat; the pipe band of Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) cadets performed and Sadd-lites square dancers did their traditional cow country steps.

'Cow Skin' Race by Riders

On the track the Trail Riders staged a cow skin race, won respectively by Alex Loisel and Bruce Borden, and Barbara Painter. In the first, one rider lies on a cow hide roped to his partner's saddle horn and hangs on through flying clouds of dust as the horse races other teams to the finish line.
Victoria Motor Sports Club got into the infield act with a gymkhana of two four-car teams vying for top points in an afternoon series of events such as the serpentine race, in which cars were wheeled adroitly in an out of a 'row of stakes against cars of the opposite team.
Balloon bursting was another, in which young lady passengers leaned out with pointed sticks as drivers went past a row of stakes with balloons affixed, the object to pop them all in the shortest time.
Sports cars taking part included Triumph TR 2s and 3s, MGs, a Morgan and Jaguar.
On stage again the undulations of hula dancer Valerie Parkin, her dark brown hair waving with her arms, drew full male attention.
Then a wave of laughter swept the park as, on the track, junior riders in a pony race let things get out of hand. Their mounts surged down the stretch, one weaving through the field and still managing to keep a neck behind the winner, crossed the finish line and kept going around-the-turn and into the back stretch heedless of entreaties to stop.
One pony dumped his rider in the heavy dust and confusion, but without injury.

All This, and Judo, Too

The stage show, directed by Bert Binney with MC Robert Hullock, also featured tap dancers Don Leckie and Valerie Parkin, singer Dianne Hogarth and accordionist Ron Korhonen, who also appeared at the mardi gras.
As a special feature, members of the new Victoria Judo Club demonstrated a number of throws and falls used in weaponless combat and against persons using small arms, knives or other dangerous instruments.
Winner of the motorcycle club's three-beat race on track and infield was Tom Richardson, with runners-up Bill Smith and Wes Morhart.
Team "B" with 345 points was winner of the sports car gymkhana, leading team "A" with 235 points. Drivers were Pete Westoby with an MG-TD, Dave Harris with a TR2, Alister McNeill with a TR3 and Dave Wardell with a TR3.

Bob Henson Named Top Trail Rider

Bob Henson was declared winner of the aggregate trophy offered for competition in the Colwood Trail Riders gymkhana held at Sandown Park in connection with Sidney Day celebrations.
Points won in both Sunday and Tuesday events counted toward the trophy.
Half-mile race—Floyd Adams, Darrell Walker, Alex Loisel.

Woman's Death 'Accidental' Inquest Finds

A coroner's jury today brought in a verdict of accidental death at the inquest on Mrs. Wah Lee, 66, 1822 1/2 Government.
She died in hospital at 2:50 a.m. Saturday, after being in collision with a car at Government and Chatham, at 1:25 a.m.
Driver of the car was Gordon W. Donaldson, Lake Cowichan. He has been charged with criminal negligence, and a preliminary hearing is set for next Tuesday.
Because he has been charged, coroner Dr. E. C. Hart did not permit Donaldson to give evidence at the inquest.
The jury heard evidence from a passenger in Donaldson's car, Ross W. Elmes of Lake Cowichan, and three eyewitnesses, Stephen Ward, 3941 La Salle Rd.; Bruce McKay, 403 Bay St., and Raymond Doucette, 601 Trutch St.

PNE Ideas Asked For Colwood Fair

B.C. Agricultural Association, with a 50-year lease to the old Colwood Park race track property for exhibition and racing purposes, will go to the Pacific National Exhibition for advice in developing the 130-acre tract.
Alex Hill, secretary of the association, said a committee would be sent to interview the PNE manager, and to find professional advice on the laying out of the grounds.
"We want the best technical advice possible," he said. "We likely will start in a small way, but we want everything to be right, and of the best."
One of the first projects in mind, he said, is construction of a large building suitable for sports, conventions, meetings and concerts.
PARK 15,000
"The park is only 12 minutes from town, and we will have parking space for up to 15,000 cars," he said. "We probably will invite officials of the PNE over here to go over the land with us. We are looking to the future, and don't want to mess it up now."
He said the association has permission to sub-let the race track for a 20-year period instead of the five-year period originally granted under terms of the lease with the national defence department, that owns the land.
BEST DEAL
"We are going to see who will give us the best deal," Mr. Hill said. "We feel we have something valuable to offer, and that several groups will be interested."
Original plans called for development of the land as site of a first-class fair with a horse racing season. It is hoped to see both in operation by 1959.
Officers of the association, elected Monday night, are Arthur H. Cox, president; George Harknett, Jr., first vice-president; W. S. Norrington, second vice-president; H. R. Milburn, third vice-president; J. G. Bremner, A. Brown and S. R. Bowden, executive members.
On the race course committee are K. R. "Doc" Darbyshire, Mr. Harknett and Mr. Milburn.
"Doc Darbyshire resigned as president because he felt business interests keep him in Vancouver too much," Mr. Hill said. "He said that with the organization becoming active, a Victoria man should be president."

Four Hurt in City In Three-Car Crashes

Two three-car collisions sent four people to city hospitals Monday and Dominion Day in one of the city's best-behaved holidays.
Three of the four were taken to Jubilee Hospital at midnight Tuesday and one was detained with injuries received in a crash at Gorge and Milgrove.
Two drivers, Cecil H. Hill of Cobble Hill, and Robert Nelson, RCN, pleaded not guilty in Saanich police court today to charges of impaired driving and were remanded for trial.
Fourth injured person was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital about five hours after a three-car smash on Douglas near Burnside at 12:27 p.m. Monday.
He was John D. Ralph, 847 Vernon, who was detained with suspected back injury and discharged Tuesday.
Albert Delahoy, 2853 Murray, is in "fairly good" condition today at Jubilee with head and leg injuries received in the midnight collision.
His wife, with unspecified injuries, and driver Dorothy Housley, 2736 Seaview, with knee injury, were X-rayed and released from Jubilee.
Saanich police said a small car driven by Hill was stopped facing east on Gorge waiting to turn left at Milgrove.
Hill's car was struck on the left rear by an auto driven east on Gorge by Nelson, which then caromed into the wrong lane and into the path of the Housley car, police said.
The Monday accident happened about 300 feet north of Burnside as a 4x4 driven by Ronald N. Trickett, 4261 Torquay, going south on Douglas was in collision with the rear of the Ralph car, which then was in collision with the third car, also driven south, by Dietrich Serger, 4012 McLillard, city police said.
Damage to Ralph's car was heavy, to Trickett's medium and to Serger's light.

Fish Dispute Outlook Dim

Further talks will be held Thursday in an attempt to avert a strike by B.C.'s 5,000 salmon fishermen, but the outlook is not bright, United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union secretary Homer Stevens said today.
The fishermen voted 90.26 per cent in favor of strike action following fish price offers by the B.C. Fisheries Association that are 5 to 10 per cent less than those paid last year.
Mr. Stevens told The Times the 1958 price offers represent reductions up to three cents a pound for salmon.
He said the association offered 25 cents a pound for sockeye salmon, compared with 28 cents last year; 14 cents for coho, compared with 15 1/2 cents; nine cents for pinks, compared with 9 1/2 cents.
Union demands per pound respectively were 30, 18 and 11 cents.

Gyro Carnival Sets Objective Of $10,000

Victoria Gyro Club hopes to raise $10,000 for the development of its children's park at Cadboro Bay from the annual Gyro Carnival which opens in the grounds of Central Junior High School at 7 tonight.
The official opening by deputy Mayor Ald. Arthur Dowell will be at 8 p.m. The reeves of Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay also will attend.

Rented Vessel Total Loss; Cruiser Picks Up Survivors

Three Victorians, one of them a young woman expecting a child in 10 days, were taken from a blazing boat in Saanich Inlet Tuesday night after a futile battle to extinguish the flames.
Saved were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bowcott, Battery Street, who are expecting the child shortly, and Mrs. Donna Brown, a friend of the couple.
They had hired the boat at Anglers' Rentals in Brentwood for an evening of fishing, and were just preparing to return to the float when the fire broke out, apparently under the fuel tank.
GOT WORSE
"It wasn't bad until we turned a fire extinguisher on it," Mrs. Brown said later. "Then it seemed to get worse."
The three were crowded on the bow of the craft, 15 feet in length and with a cabin, when their predicament was noted by Mr. and Mrs. William J. D. Hoskyn, 3914 Hobbs Road, and a friend while they were travelling nearby in their 20-foot cruiser.
"We nosed right up to the bow of the burning boat, and took them off directly on to our own," Mrs. Hoskyn said today. "When we reached shore a doctor, ambulance and police were there, but Mr. and Mrs. Bowcott and Mrs. Brown were okay."

'Legal Age' Reduction Rejected

Victoria Jaycees failed Tuesday to win backing in their fight to have the "legal age" in Canada lowered from 21 to 19.
The move was beaten on the floor of the national Jaycee convention at the Empress Hotel.
In proposing the resolution, Ira Hill, president of the local group, criticized the attitude of a country which permitted its young people to support families, hold down jobs, and fly jets, yet did not permit them to vote.
CONFUSION
The motion was defeated partly as a result of confusion in the wording which did not discriminate between a reduction in the voting age or legal age which would include insurance, credit buying, and other forms of financial responsibility.
An amendment by Victoria was disallowed by chairman Eric Charman who said it "altered the intent of the motion."
A second resolution by the Victoria group asking the federal government to sponsor state-controlled lotteries gained a 60 to 57 vote nod from the delegates.
The resolution was not, however, adopted as an official Jaycee pronouncement unless it is ratified by the national board since it did not receive a clear three to one majority.
Only resolution to be unanimously endorsed by the convention was an internal one proposing the formation of a national committee to investigate the total participation of all Jaycee units in Canada in the international organization.
Among defeated resolutions was a request to the government to supervise more closely the conduct of business in Canada by United States interests.

Mt. View Band Tuning Up For Stampede

Mount View High School Band is busy tuning up for the Calgary Stampede next week.
The 36-boy and girl instrumentalists will compete in the high school and open class band contests at Calgary next Sunday and will give concerts at Calgary and Edmonton.
Leaving the school at 2 p.m. Thursday they will travel by bus to Nanaimo and cross to Vancouver by ferry. They will journey to Calgary in a private tourist car, preparing their own meals en route.
There will be a one-day stop-over at Banff.
"The band is in fine form," Howard Denike, their conductor, said today, "and naturally we think our chances are pretty good."
Mount View High School Band was placed second in the recent Victoria Music Festival and won third place in the Victoria Day parade May 19.
In charge of the instrumentalists will be Mr. and Mrs. Denike and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Matthews.

By PENNY SAVER

Light books for light reading are just the thing during the holiday season! Think how easy paper-back copies of best-sellers are to pack in the valise for travelling or in a basket for the beach.

I've found the best in this type of reading in a local book store... and at a very low price!

If you've ever read English murder-mysteries, you'll know what I mean when I say "suspense"! Chock full of frightening adventures that involve interesting characters, the mysteries in paper back copies are 35 cents and up.

Paul Brickhill's famous "Reach for the Sky" is now out in a paper back. It's a wonderful piece of work for "can't put that book down" reading! The price? It's reasonable at 75 cents.

There's hardly a man who doesn't go for reading war books. So, if the man in your house has a birthday coming up, you won't want to skip buying him a gift like this! C. S. Forester's books include "The General," "The Gun," or "Death to the French." The price is low for the many hours of enjoyment... just 50 cents a copy.

A new set of publications is out under the heading of Canadian Library: Modernistic, illustrated books including works of Stephen Leacock, Sinclair Ross and many other Canadian authors. Books are priced at $1 each.

The "How to Do It" books are terrific! How to make hors d'oeuvres, canapes, cocktails, how to choose and serve wines, are only a few of the subjects in this set of small colorful books. Each one is priced at 95 cents... they are stiff backed.

Many happy holiday hours can be spent behind the pages of a book! Phone my number 2-3131 if you are looking for this type of enjoyment.

How to thank son's host:

My son, who is stationed in Germany, just spent two weeks with his buddy at the home of the buddy's uncle and aunt in England. They were wonderful to him, treating him like one of the family. They gave him a teapot to give to me. Of course I am writing them a letter of thanks and ap-Louise Davis

It would be nice if you could give something that is not readily found in England. If you decide not to "reciprocate" now, how about waiting until Christmas time and send a remembrance then, along with another note of appreciation for making your son's furlough such an enjoyable one?

Shower Party

Louise Davis answers:

It seems to me that if you send a gift to your son's hostess, it might look as if you were giving to reciprocate for the teapot. For her, it might take the fun out of giving. I think that your appreciative and friendly letter would give her more pleasure than anything. Perhaps you can send your son something from here and he in turn could send it from Germany. The gift could be from him, but it would be an easy

Rev. A. I. Avery officiated at the ceremony. Traditional music was played by organist Mrs. M. Avery. "I Love You Truly" was sung by Mrs. E. Oliver during signing of the register. Entering the church on the arm of her father, the dark-haired bride was radiant in a floor-length gown of white taffeta. It featured a gathered waistline and the bodice had lily-point sleeves and a sequin studded jacket. Finger-tip veil mistled from a tiara of pearls and sequins. She carried a white prayer book topped with a cascade of red roses and white carnations.
